Navy Reveals Axis Subs Don't Go Home

DEPTH CHARGES TAKE COSTLY TOLL AT SEA

BLIMPS TRAIL RAIDERS.

Actual Number of Sinkings Kept Secret as U. S. Scours Ocean.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Bombs and depth charges from naval vessels and aircraft today are believed to be making Axis submarine crews pay dearly for recent attacks upon merchant vessels in American waters.

This was intimated by a navy spokesman who commented in a grimly humorous manner that "the percentage of one-way traffic is increasing" for the enemy undersea boats which attacked at least six merchant ships off the Atlantic coast during the past week.

While the navy is maintaining official silence about results of counter-measures against U-boats, the spokesman intimated that an undisclosed numbe' of Axis subs have been sunk or damaged by American fleet units.

It is no naval secret that America's Atlantic fleet units are better prepared and equipped to cope with the underwater raiders now than it was in 1918, when the kaiser's U-boats sank 100 vessels off the American coast in four months.

Apparently successful counter-measures now being employed by the navy "from Cape Hatteras to Newfoundland" recalled some of the difficulties encountered by defending forces during the submarine attacks in 1918.

In the spring of 1918, a U-boat attacked the tug, Perth Amboy, off Cape Cod, Mass. American seaplanes counter-attacked the sub with aerial bombs, one or more of which fell on the deck of the raider, but failed to explode. Indications are that no "duds" are being dropped today.

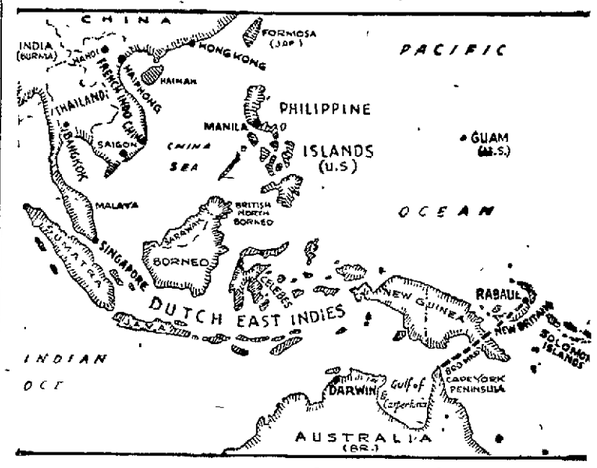
Where Japs Score New Gains



Japanese were scoring advances on two war fronts today—pushing ahead with their invasion of Australian-mandated territory and overpowering the valiant American and Philippine defenders on Baton peninsula north of Manila. The map at the top shows Rabaul, on the island of New Britain, where Jap troops have landed, constituting a grave threat to Australia proper. At the bottom is Lieut. General Masaharu Homma, crack Japanese strategist, who is in charge of Japanese armies in the Philippines. Gen. Homma, with the advantage of a much larger army, has been throwing attacks at the American and Filipino defenders 24 hours a day, in an effort to wear them down, completely disregarding heavy casualties. Frustrated in his attacks for several days, Gen. Homma today succeeded in cracking the left side of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's hard-fighting army, putting the defenders in grave peril.

Grads Told They Face World Waiting for Help From Them

"Youth has just as much ability today as it ever had and faces a world crying for help to solve its many problems," 96 Mansfield Senior high school graduates were told last night at Commencement exercises in the school auditorium.

The speaker was Dr. Walter A. Zaugg, professor of education at Bowling Green State university, who made the claim in the course of a discussion in which he attempted to portray the world as seen through youth's eyes

Wearing their caps and gowns, the pupils watched their 12-year career in Mansfield schools, draw to a close while behind them sat their parents who filled every available seat in the auditorium.

Dr. Zaugg told pupils their optimistic traits were needed and warned them against youthful beliefs that they were misunderstood.

"Your parents," he said, "understand you but fears for your future and the difficulties of living are what you will have to overcome."

In this connection Dr. Zaugg quoted Mark Twain's anecdote about his father in which the humorist said that when he was 14 years his father appeared so ignorant the youthful Twain could hardly stand him in the same room.

"But by the time I was 21," Twain's quotation continued, "I

WORK SPEEDED

Paving to Start on Rail Removal Job Monday.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said that work on the removal of 340 tons of abandoned street car rails from Mansfield streets is progressing rapidly.

The director said that workers of the Pollak Steel company, removing the tracks, had already pulled up several hundred feet of rails on Park avenue west and that the repaving of the street would probably start Monday.

More than a mile and a half of the three miles of tracks left in the city are located on Park avenue. Other sections still remain on North and South Main streets and on Bowman and West Sixth streets.

Crafton said that the city expects to make a profit of from $800 to $1,000 on the deal. The steel company will be given the street rails but will pay the city $10 per thousand for brick used to repave the streets.

BOMBER FALLS

Crew of Eight Lost as Plane Sinks In Atlantic.

NORFOLK, Va.—(UP)—Fifth naval district headquarters here reported today that a navy PB-Y bomber had crashed and sunk near Oregon Inlet, N. C., with the loss of its crew of eight.

Officials said the navy department at Washington had authorized announcement of the accident. Several bodies have been recovered, and salvaging operations are going forward, the announcement said.

N-J Carriers Buy Out Postoffice Supply of Stamps

Mansfield News-Journal carriers "bought out" the postoffice today as far as 10-cent defense savings stamps were concerned.

Hundreds of new orders from customers for the regular weekly delivery of U. S. defense savings stamps made it necessary for the carriers to "clean" the postoffice of the last 13,000 stamps in the 10-cent denomination.

"All carriers are selling more stamps than they did last week," said W. W. Bowden, News-Journal circulation manager, ading that "by tonight the sales will be way up over last week."

The boys began their delivery of the stamps when making their regular collections this week after first taking orders for weekly delivery.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — "Loopholes and inequities" in federal taxation today were expected to be the major points stressed in a speech before the City club by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr.

The secretary was accompanied by Mrs. Morgenthau when they arrived here last night from Washington by plane.

Brazil, Bolivia, Paraguay to Break With Hitlerites In Few Days.

BULLETIN

RIO DE JANEIRO — (INS) — Brazilian Foreign Minister Dr. Oswaldo Aranha told the Inter-American conference today that Brazil will break off all diplomatic relations with the Axis nations almost immediately.

(By United Press)

RIO DE JANEIRO—Peru broke diplomatic relations with the Axis today, the first American nation to act under a compromise resolution unanimously adopted by the emergency conference of American foreign ministers.

Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles, chief of the American delegation to the conference, announced that the United States ambassador to Lima had advised him of the break.

That left seven nations in the western hemisphere still maintaining diplomatic relations with Germany, Italy and Japan, and Foreign Minister Alberto Guani of Uruguay had announced that his country would break today.

Brazil, Bolivia and Paraguay will hand Axis diplomats their passports in a few days. Argentina, Chile and Ecuador will then be the only nations in the western hemisphere with which the anti-democratic powers have legitimate contact.

Although Argentina, Chile and Ecuador committed themselves yesterday to the extent of "recommending" a diplomatic break when they signed the resolution, they were believed almost certain to delay taking action.

Argentina and Chile to the end bitterly opposed a break and efforts to bring them into the united front had delayed the conference and frayed tempers for more than a week.

Ecuador considers herself the Radios, Phonographs to Be Fewer From Now On.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—A drastic curtailment in output of radios, phonographs and radio-phonograph combinations was ordered by War Production Director Donald M. Nelson today as the first step toward conversion of the industry to a $2,000,000,000 production program for the army and navy.

Acting Priorities Director J. S. Knowlson issued a limitation order which curtailed the average monthly production of radios during the next 90 days more than 40 per cent below the monthly output during the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1941.

The order directed manufacturers whose sales of radios and phonographs during the 1941 period totaled more than $1,000,000 to cut production 45 per cent, while those whose sales were under the $1,000,000 mark were ordered to slice their output 35 per cent.

Dog Eats Vitamins, Cactus

When Eleanor Bond, Girl Scout executive, and Margaret Cayford, Country Day school teacher, were given a pup a few months ago they were told she was 30 per cent dog and 70 per cent devil. So they named the pup, which is part fox terrier and part beagle, "Diablo," and she's lived up to her name by chewing up shoes, rugs, and practically everything that isn't nailed down at the girls' apartment at 49 South Mulberry. The pup's latest escapades were to eat more than 100 vitamin capsules, and a few days later to consume more than a half of a cactus plant. Neither bothered her a bit. Here the pup is shown with Betty Brown letting her sniff at the remains of the cactus plant. Betty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim H. Brown, Woodland road, is a Scout Brownie and one of Miss Cayford's pupils.

SUGAR RATION CARDS NEAR

Washington Says System to Start In Another Month Throughout U. S.

The informal sugar rationing system that has been in effect in Mansfield for several weeks probably will become official—to the extent that housewives will be required to present rationing cards in order to buy sugar—within another month.

This was learned today in Washington, when officials revealed that sugar rationing cards probably will be distributed next month and that they are watching supplies of other basic commodities for signs of shortages.

For several weeks Mansfield retailers have been limiting the amount of sugar any one customer could purchase. This was done, it was explained, to guard against civilian hoarding of supplies which would lead to an inevitable shortage.

The sugar rationing plans have progressed to the stage that defense officials at Washington al-

SAY THEY WON'T OPERATE PLANT

Shoe Plant Officials Adamant In Strike at Portsmouth.

PORTSMOUTH—(INS)—Officials of Portsmouth's second largest industry, the Selby Shoe company, today said they would make no attempt to operate their plant until the CIO strike of 3,200 production workers is settled.

Pickets, shivering in below freezing temperatures, listlessly patroled the plant, but no other activity was noticeable.

The walkout, called by the CIO Shoe Workers Union in its demands for wage increases and a union dues check-off system, halted production on spring models of ladies' shoes. The company cited a general 10 per cent increase of last month's as the maximum it could afford to pay at present.

Ease Teachers' Requirements as Shortage Grows

The demands of war and the lure of better pay in other professions today had resulted in reduced education requirements for elementary school teachers in Mansfield and Richland county throughout the state, school officials said here.

Revised requirements, set up by the state department of education, permit the hiring of teachers with only two years of college training for elementary school jobs. For the past three years elementary instructors have been required to have at least four years of college.

APPOINT IDEN

Defense Council Committee to Study Blackouts.

Appointment of R. D. Iden, distribution superintendent of the Ohio Public Service company, as chairman of a committee to study the problem of blackouts in Mansfield, was announced today by the local civilian defense council.

Although personnel of the committee is not complete, it will include City Electrician Ernest Adams and representatives of each of the railroads serving Mansfield, Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, defense chairman, said today.

In addition to the appointment of Iden, the defense council at its regular meeting last night voted a resolution urging the public not to entertain, nor to purchase from, salesmen who have been reported in the city any blackout material, emblems, insignia, or uniforms purportedly pertaining to civilian defense. These may not be worn unless the volunteer has completed training and received a certificate from the council, Kalbfleisch said.

Australians Mobilize All Home Defense

Send New Appeals To U. S., Britain For Immediate Assistance

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON— (UP) —Australian Minister Richard G. Casey will present to President Roosevelt today Australia's imperative appeal for aid in resisting Japan.

MELBOURNE, Australia—The government tonight ordered immediate mobilization of all home defense forces in full fighting strength to meet the urgent threat of a Japanese attempt to invade Australia.

The mobilization order was issued after an emergency war cabinet meeting at which it was decided to send a second urgent appeal within 24 hours to President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill for immediate aid against the Japanese forces which have won bases northeast and northwest of Australia.

Government reports indicated that Australian guardsmen and volunteers were fighting Japanese invasion troops in the interior of New Britain island, in the Bismarck archipelago, and in the neighborhood of Kieta, in the Solomons southeast of New Britain.

Reports were indefinite, and it was not known whether the Australians had retired from Rabaul, chief town of New Britain, 800 miles northeast of the mainland, or from Kieta, on the Bougainville island in the Solomons 275 miles southeast of New Britain, where the Japanese were believed to have effected landings in force.

The Japanese had established themselves on the northern arm of Dutch Celebes, off the northwest corner of Australia, and the government held that the situation was urgent because the Japanese navy had effectively isolated the Enemy Opens Way Into Positions Of U. S. Force On Luzon

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Terrific Japanese attacks supported by naval vessels and aircraft, have driven wedges into Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Batan lines and captured some positions on the west coast of the peninsula, the war department reported today.

"Heavy" losses were inflicted upon the Japanese, the communique said, but for the first time since the war in the Philippines started it was admitted that the American defenders also suffered "heavy" losses—losses they could ill afford.

MacArthur's men, fatigued by constant fighting and outnumbered by the powerfully reinforced Japanese troops, launched counter-attack after counter-attack.

The counter-attacks succeeded in recovering some of the lost positions but others, it was admitted, remained in Japanese control.

The communique indicated for the first time that MacArthur may be in serious difficulty to maintain his lines on Batan peninsula. The climax of the big Japanese drive appeared to be approaching.

The communique mentioned no place names on the west Batan shore where the battle was at its height. However, Japanese reports have claimed the capture of Moron, almost halfway down the peninsula, and indicated that a drive is rapidly developing from Bagac, which is linked with the east Batan coast by the only east-west highway across the peninsula.

The communique did not indicate whether the Japanese attack has developed sufficient momentum to endanger MacArthur's entire position on Batan peninsula.

FOLLOW-UP: Dutch Blast Jap Ships In Second Heavy Raid

(By International News Service)

BATAVIA—In their second smashing raid on Japanese ship concentrations in two days, Dutch army bombers today blasted Jap vessels in the vital Straits of Macassar, capsizing a large passenger liner and scoring direct hits on a big transport and a destroyer.

The ships were attacked off the Borneo port of Balik Papan, which has been under Japanese fire for several days

Two 750-pound bombs were said to have capsized the passenger liner, while another 750-pound bomb tore a huge hole in the side of the big transport. The Jap destroyer sustained several direct hits by 100 pound bombs.

All the Dutch planes returned safely.

Yesterday N. E. I. pilots, flying American-built bombers and fighters, caught a Japanese ship concentration in the Macassar straits, scoring 12 direct hits on eight vessels, including a warship believed to be a battleship, a heavy cruiser, a cruiser, three transports, a destroyer, and a smaller ship.

The Straits of Macassar are the most probable route for a seaborne Japanese invasion of the rich Borneo oil district of Balik Papan, and also lead directly to Java, key island of the Netherlands East Indies.

No attacks have been made on Java as yet.

Authorities in Batavia announced several days ago that capture of Balik Papan would do the Japanese no good since all oil installations had been destroyed according to long contemplated plans.

It was announced earlier that there had been a slackening of Japanese air attacks on the Netherlands Indies.

FINAL: Reds Expect to Crush Nazis Completely Next Winter

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Sir Stafford Cripps, retiring British ambassador to Moscow, declared today the Russians hope to deliver the final blow to Germany next fall and winter and that the Soviets "intend to make the conquest of Germany absolutely complete and thorough."

In a lengthy press conference, the former ambassador declared that Joseph Stalin was "10 times as strong" with his people now as he was at the start of the German invasion last year.

In his only reference to Moscow-Tokyo relations, he declared that Russia and Japan had long standing difficulties which could never be satisfied except by force.

The former ambassador said the Red army now had 9,000,000 men under arms and in the spring would have twice the strength it had at the start of the Russian-German war last June.

He said the Russians hope to "deliver the final blow to Germany during the fall and winter of 1942."

Sir Stafford warned "against the belief that the German army is routed, as losses on both sides are extremely heavy and the Germans are fighting to the last man."

He said Russian production in the Urals had been doubled since the German invasion and that many factories removed piecemeal from the front to the west now were coming into full production again. He expressed the conviction that Russia, with

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—Nobody knows, even in terms of astronomical billions, what this war will cost and has cost us already—the undisclosed damages at Pearl Harbor — the moneys and goods we have supplied to anti-Axis power that will never be returned—the domestic losses among small business enterprises suffered and to be suffered as we go along—the losses to labor now due to priorities and future losses yet unmeasured and unmeasurable.

Gen. Johnson.

Much of the vast equipment we are making is absolutely indispensable now. A day will come when most of it and the hundreds of millions of dollars in plant we have built to make it, won't have as much salvage value as would be left if it were all burned in one colossal fire.

None of this includes our multiplied losses if we enter the arena of world combat and are not confined, as now, merely to outpost actions and skirmishing at sea.

The possibilities of loss, which must be paid out of American pocket-books are staggering. There is no way to avoid this if we are to continue in our announced policy of waging war "any place on earth" where a pro-Axis force threatens to fight.

There is no use protesting this, because it can't be avoided, but there is one additional element that seems to be little understood. That is that the sum total of this unprecedented cost can be multiplied by 2 or 3 without bringing us any benefit or adding an ounce of material or man-power to our total effort.

Prices always rise in war, and in such a world-wide war as this, there is no limit to that multiplier. World War One cost us 213 per cent of what it would have cost if prices had been controlled. It cost the central and allied powers nearly three times what it would have cost at pre-war prices.

Now surely, here is a catastrophe as much to be avoided as the loss of a major campaign and the destruction of armies.

It is also quite apparent from our first World war experience that it could be avoided. Fistfuls of new theories as to how to avoid it indirectly have been advanced, higher taxes, forced savings, restricted borrowing power—for example. There are all theoretical and untried.

The simplest and most direct way to avoid them is to control them and make it unlawful to charge any prices higher than the existing and already partly inflated structure. That is generous enough in all conscience. It is already estimated that this war has cost us $13,000,000,000 more than it would have cost at pre-war prices.

Of course, that can't be done unless all prices are controlled, because any rise in any big segment of the price pattern tends to pull the whole structure upward.

This is especially true of the prices of labor and farm products. Both enter importantly into the cost of everything that moves in commerce. You will get few arguments out of any authorities on the truth of that proposition.

Yet, here on a front as dangerous and important as any battlefield, in a proposed campaign like this price fixing job, we have had and can get no action worthy of the name.

It is true that Leon Henderson has moved in vigorously on some few prices. He has moved on his own courage and good sense, but with doubtful statutory authority. Furthermore, his effort to control all prices by attacking a few is like trying to fill a barrel with a sieve-bottom bucket.

Congress has fumbled with this problem for months. It seems utterly afraid even to touch the labor element of cost and has justified the farmers into demanding almost equal immunity from price control.

Henderson scarcely has any choice but to move into every community with the most heavily manned organization employed by any of the New Deal agencies and attempt to force down even local advances in things of no great importance—notions and knick-knacks, as well as coal—but not the far more important food prices and manufactured goods His is an utterly impossible task. Piece-meal price fixing is an absurdity on its face.

CALLS FOR BIG CUT IN NORMAL U. S. EXPENSES

Ohio Chamber of Commerce Says 4½ Billion Can Be Saved.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The Ohio Chamber of Commerce asserted today that at least four and a half billion dollars could be saved in federal non-defense expenditures.

Ralph P. Ward, the chamber's industrial relations director, said an investigation by him showed that the president's budget message of Jan. 5 recommended expenditures of $66,660,792,300 for the fiscal year, or $7,732,800,000 more than reported.

George B. Chandler, C. of C. executive vice president, described previous estimates of possible cuts in the federal government as "timid and ultra-conservative" and asserted the proposed slashes could be made without sacrificing essential services.

The largest suggested cut—two billion dollars—was recommended for the expanded social security program. Defeat of these expenditures was demanded on the ground that it also would save hundreds of billions of dollars in future years.

By reducing the tax for old age and survivors' insurance nearly a billion dollars, a greater available tax base for revenues needed to finance the war could be attained, the report said.

A $480,100,000 slash in WPA was urged. The report explained that there was no need now for a "make work" WPA program in view of the war effort.

Proposed farm relief appropriations were criticized by the chamber on the ground that congress and the administration created high prices for agricultural commodities while using the same powers to keep down prices of commodities farmers buy. An $854,000,000 cut was proposed.

Other recommended slashes: Aids to Youth (NYA and CCC) $150,000,000; non-military public works, $100,000,000; operating costs of civil agencies, $100,000,000, and interest on public debt, $100,000,000.

Mansfield police are keeping such a sharp lookout for auto tire and wheel thieves that when Patrolman Clare Kyler, last night saw a man staggering down the middle of Park avenue west carrying a tire, he decided to investigate. He learned that the man was intoxicated and was attempting to change the tire on his auto. Two friends in the back seat had already "passed out." Kyler arrested the trio on a warrant charging intoxication.

Half of the money the club receives from the tax stamps is used to buy defense stamps which are being distributed to the blind. LEGISLATORS TALK NEW TAX FOR INDUSTRY

Taft Offers Separate Plan Countering Limit on Contract Earnings.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congressmen are considering a special tax on industry to drain off most war production profits.

Senator George (D1Ga), chairman of the senate finance committee, today advocated a "super" levy on war profits, over and above taxes that now are imposed or might be voted on excess profits in general.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), another member of the committee, has suggested a separate tax on the earnings from government contracts instead of various proposals that have been made in congress recently for statutory limitation of such profits.

"I think such a tax would work much better than a profit limitation such as congress formerly imposed on ship and airplane builders and later repealed," Taft told reporters. "There have been complaints that such limitations slowed up production. I say, let industry make the profits, but take back all of them, above a certain low percentage, in special taxation."

George said the treasury had objected in the past because of the difficulties in administering such a levy, but he saw no reason why a special war profits tax should not be imposed in some form.

Senate leaders arranged yesterday for the chamber to meet at 11 a. m., EST, before they learned that the house would not act until Monday on the compromise version of the administration's price control bill.

The senate had expected to complete action on the price measure today, but a mixup in the house before its unanimous passage of a $12,525,872,000 military appropriations bill delayed final action on the bill there until Monday.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

The Time of Your Life.

MY favorite playwright, Bill Shakespeare, once remarked and wrote:

"There is a tide in the affairs of men,
Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune;
Omitted, all the voyage of their life
Is bound in shallows and in miseries."

Or, as Moss Hart, a more current author, might put it: Timing is what counts. In the theater or in a ball game, or in big business or in anybody's career, timing is vital. Ethel Barrymore needs it, acrobats need it, the Rockettes need it, the stage manager at "Sons O' Fun" needs it. And so do you.

Kilgallen

Old newspaper clippings show best how timing works. Gertrude Ederle swam the English channel when we were a restless and extravagant people, vastly amused by the daring of a stout muscular girl who covered herself with axle grease and stroked her way through the frigid waves of the channel, followed by a small, bobbing boat containing her luncheon. It didn't prove anything except that some people can swim the English channel, but it was well-timed. The myriad channel swimmers who followed "Trudie" got only aching muscles and small newspaper paragraphs mentioning that someone had done it "again."

In a less spectacular way, good timing and poor timing are always being illustrated in the careers of screen actors Eddie Norris Ann Sheridan's first husband, looked like very hot cellu-loid material when he first crossed the camera's path—tall, dark, well built, handsome, and a fair actor.

But before Eddie could get up to bat another young man answering to the same description—tall, dark, handsome, and a fair actor—got to first base. Robert Taylor, his name was, and he swept the country like prairie fire, and anything like him that came afterwards couldn't be seen for his smoke. It was just a question of timing.

Eleanor Holm picked a bad time to drink champagne, but aside from that her timing was usually nifty. . . . Joe Louis timed his giant contribution to the navy perfectly. Had he given his purse after any other of his two-score fights, it would have been a fine gesture and a feather in the cap of the boxing world, of course—but coming after Pearl Harbor this gift from a great fighter was more than a lot of money: it was a symbol of the nation's unity.

Songwriters are alert to the value of timing That's why today we have more than 150 Pearl Harbor, Keep 'Em Flying, Off to Yokohama war songs, good, bad and awful But not one has clicked the way a song did in World war I—George M. Cohan's perfectly timed "Over There."

The Andrews Sisters climbed to the top of an almost insurmountable heap of girl trios with their recording of a trick number—"Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen." No trick lyric had so caught the public fancy since "Yes, We Have No Bananas"—but the Andrews Sisters got it by a piece of lucky timing. Their manager, Lou Levy, dropped into a recording studio just when a search was on for a girl group to record the number.

At the time of his death he was engaged in carpet and linoleum laying.

OHIO BOY HAS CHARMED LIFE

Escapes Third Major Auto Crash With Only Minor Injuries.

CHILLICOTHE — (INS) — Nine-year-old Freddy Biechler apparently bears a charmed life.

He had only minor cuts and bruises to show today as a result of his third major auto crash in recent weeks — when a train crashed into the car in which he was riding, killing Ralph Detillian, 21, the driver.

Detillian was killed only a block from the scene where his father was fatally injured in 1935. The car was dragged 200 feet by the B. & O. flyer, but Freddie, as in his other two crashes, escaped serious hurts.

MOTHER MOVED

Touched By First Lady's Flowers for Daughter's Funeral.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Mrs. Andrew Kovacs, whose nine-year-old daughter, Mary Ann, was killed by an automobile while gathering paper for the national salvage program, today was moved by the fact that "a lady so high in the world and so busy should take notice of the death of a little girl unknown to her."

Mrs. Kovacs was referring to flowers sent by Mrs. Franklin D Roosevelt.

MOTHER ADMITS STRANGLING SON

Tiny Body Found In Closet Of 24-Year-Old Woman In Rooming House.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — A 24-year-old woman, who told police she strangled her new-born son with a towel Jan. 9 and hid his body in a makeshift closet in a rooming house, was held on open charges today while detectives pieced together her tragic story.

The tiny body, crammed in a paper bag, was discovered behind a flowered curtain that screened off a portion of her room. The mother, a slight, brown-eyed laundry worker, told authorities she came to Columbus from her southern Ohio home on Sept. 5 after she discovered she was to have a child.

She obtained a job in the laundry and worked every day until she gave birth to her son, alone and unassisted, in her room. Then, she said, she strangled it and returned to work the next day.

However, Coroner E. E. Smith cast doubt on her story, indicating she may not have been the child's mother, and stating that the child probably was born within the last few days. Authorities planned to give the girl further mental and physical examinations.

According to the girl's story, she met the child's father while on a party in West Virginia last March. When she later wrote to him, she was told that he had been killed in an auto crash.

FLAG PRESENTED SCHOOL PUPILS

Carpenter First Graders Receive Gift From Vets.

Mansfield veterans of the 37th Division in the first World war and its auxiliary in the city yesterday presented a large flag to the first grade pupils at the Carpenter school.

The presentation was made at the school by Clyde Myers, president of the Mansfield chapter, and Mrs. Mildred North, head of the auxiliary.

The pupils who received the flag presented a patriotic program, including a flag salute, songs and recitations. Miss Mae Ruggle is the first grade teacher at the school.

MOTHER OF GOVERNOR BRICKER DIES AT HOME IN MT. STERLING

(By United Press)

MT. STERLING — Ohio's first mother, Mrs. Laura King Bricker, died of a heart attack last night at her Mt. Sterling home.

The mother of Gov. John W. Bricker, she was 78.

She was stricken at 8.30 p. m. while talking to her nephew, William Bricker, and her son-in-law, Freeman Mooney, and died within 15 minutes. She had not been ill.

Governor Bricker was called from a dinner meeting of the Ohio Newspaper association at Columbus but his mother died before he could reach Mt. Sterling.

Mrs. Bricker took no part in public life. She was seldom seen at official functions but many recalled seeing her proud and smiling, at her son's inaugurations. They were devoted mother and son, and it was their custom to dine together once or twice a week, either at her home or at the executive mansion. He had talked to her by telephone twice during the last week.

Mrs. Bricker had lived all her life in Madison county.

She remained active in late years, took care of her home, and managed the old Bricker farm in Pleasant township, where the governor was born.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday and burial will be in the Mt. Sterling cemetery.

In addition to her son, Mrs. Bricker is survived by his twin sister, Mrs. Ella Mooney, and two grandchildren, Jack Bricker and Laurabelle Mooney.

PENALTY STIFF FOR LOITERER

Mansfielder Gets Earlier Fine Enforced at Hearing.

Although the fine for loitering is only $5 and costs, Robert McDaniels, alias Robert Black, 19, of 345 Springmill street, was given a much heavier penalty for that offense.

McDaniels was arrested Thursday upon complaint of Pete DiSanze, proprietor of the Greystone night club. Arraigned in municipal court yesterday, he pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch.

Judge Kalbfleisch also revoked the suspension of a $200 fine which had been levied against McDaniels last November after he had been found guilty on a petit larceny charge.

McDaniels was unable to pay the $205 in fines and was sent to Richland county jail to serve approximately four months.

SEARCH ENDS

Former Mansfielder Held on Embezzlement Charge.

Sought for two weeks on a secret grand jury indictment for embezzlement, Frank Johnson, 42, former Mansfielder, was held today in Washington, D. C., where he was arrested by the FBI, according to Prosecutor Harold Lutz.

Johnson is accused of selling equipment belonging to the National Engineering company, Mansfield, for $110 and failing to turn the money back to the company. He formerly was a salesman for the firm.

Lutz said Johnson will be returned here for a hearing with Sheriff Frank E Robinson or his deputies probably leaving for Washington Monday.

Johnson was indicted by the Richland county grand jury about two weeks ago. The FBI trailed him from Mansfield to Miami, Fla., and then to Washington. The equipment he is accused of selling is used for repairing roller skates, the prosecutor said.

KING, QUEEN TO LIVE IN FLAT

They'll Close Buckingham Palace To Take Smaller Home.

LONDON— (INS) —King George VI and Queen Elizabeth have rented a fourth-floor flat in a new steel and concrete building in London's west end and will move there within two weeks after closing Buckingham palace, the London Mail said today.

The depleted royal household staff and the preference of the royal couple for a small home were given as reasons for the move. Queen Elizabeth once was quoted as saying neither she nor the king were "palace-minded."

The new apartment will require only a small staff. The king and queen will have a private entrance and elevator.

SENTENCED FOR ARSON

COLUMBUS —(INS)— A sentence of 11 to 103 years in Ohio penitentiary was given Paul Brock, 36, one-time volunteer fireman at Portsmouth, who pleaded guilty to six charges of arson. One of the fires set by Brock was a $200,000 lumber yard blaze.

Boy Scouts Renew Drive for Books For Armed Forces

Fifteen Mansfield Boy Scout troops went to bat again today in behalf of the Victory book campaign to collect reading material for men at U. S. training camps and naval bases.

Headed by Floyd Dent, Scout executive, and the various patrol leaders the Scouts made their second canvass throughout the city to pick up books donated to the cause. Scores of people facilitated the work by notifying Scout headquarters that they would have books ready.

More than 3,000 books were collected the past week both by the Scouts and through the various collection points scattered throughout Richland county. Hundreds of volumes were expected to be delivered to Mansfield Public library, the central station, through the canvass today.

Packing the books in 50-pound lots for shipment to military areas designated by national headquarters is now underway at the library.

AUSTRALIANS MOBILIZE ALL HOME DEFENSE

Decide to Send New Appeals For Immediate Aid to U. S. and Britain.

continent until reinforcements arrive.

A first appeal for aid had been sent to the president and prime minister yesterday. The war cabinet at an emergency meeting this morning decided to appeal again at once for reinforcements in aircraft, warships and war materials.

The appeal was based on the advice of military leaders that the Allies must hold the Japanese before they can secure bases in New Guinea and cross the island-dotted Torres strait to the mainland, 100 miles away.

(A Japanese imperial headquarters communique, broadcast by the Tokyo radio and recorded in San Francisco by United Press, said Japanese land and naval forces landed yesterday morning on New Ireland island, as well as on New Britain.

The government received persistent reports that the Japanese had effected landings at remote points in New Guinea, which extends to within 100 miles of Cape York, Australia.

There were no details of the situation in New Britain island or the Kieta area, on Bougainville island in the Solomons about 275 miles southeast of Rabaul.

The government asked for immedite war equipment and espeecially for fighter, bomber and torpedo carrier planes for use against Japanese invasion fleets.

Australians frankly hoped that the next few weeks or even days would see powerful United States air squadrons thrown against the Japanese in the Australian defense zone. President Roosevelt's recent assurances that help was on the way had a tremendous moral effect.

Jap Invaders Drive Toward Moulmein

RANGOON—(U.P.)—Japanese invaders drove toward the Burma Road today and a major battle apparently was imminent for the port of Moulmein.

Burma's defenders dropped back slowly to stronger positions on the narrow land front of northern Tenasserim, between the Thai frontier and the Gulf of Martaban, but in the air, American and British planes looked for new battles after a smashing victory.

The imperials fell back from frontier outposts in the Kawkareik area, some 12 miles from the Thai border and 45 miles east of Moulmein, and were consolidating, with troops withdrawing from the southern Tenasserim zone, to defend the port.

Demands Australia Be In Cabinet

PERTH, Australia —(INS)— A demand that Australia be represented on the imperial war cabinet was voiced by Australian Prime Minister John Curtin today.

Curtin issued the demand in a conference with news correspondents. But he made it clear his demand was aimed at the British government.

In addition, Curtin demanded formation of a Pacific war council upon which all united countries concerned in the Pacific struggle should be represented.

The prime minister also gave his pledge that Australia will stand steadfast against any Japanese invasion "no matter what comes."

SHOT IN QUARREL

DAYTON —(INS)— A quarrel with another man at his home resulted in the fatal shooting of Ralph Thompson, 55-year-old painter. The slayer shot Thompson twice and then called police, authorities reported.

ORDINANCE NO. 42-14

By Mr. Porch.

An Ordinance granting permission to the Ohio Bell Telephone Company, its successors and assigns, to construct, operate and maintain its lines of telephone and telegraph under and across the sewage disposal property owned by the City of Mansfield and situated in Section 22 Madison Township, County of Richland and State of Ohio.

Be It Ordained by the Council of the City of Mansfield, State of Ohio

Section 1. That permission and authority be and they are hereby granted unto The Ohio Bell Telephone Company, its successors and assigns, to construct, operate and maintain its lines of telephone and telegraph together with all necessary conduits, manholes, cables, fixtures and appurtenances under and across the Sewage Disposal property owned by the City of Mansfield and situated in Section 22, Madison Township, Richland County, Ohio, the aforesaid lines to cross the city owned property adjacent to the South limits of U. S. Highway No. 30 for a distance of approximately one hundred fifty feet.

Section 2. The underground work authorized by this Ordinance and by the permission herein granted shall be so constructed, maintained and operated so as not to incommode the City of Mansfield in the use and operation of the Sewage Disposal plant and The Ohio Bell Telephone Company shall promptly restore the Sewage Disposal property in a proper and workmanlike manner after the installation of its telephone and telegraph lines and other appurtenances.

Section 3. A plan showing the route and location of the aforesaid lines of telephone and telegraph shall be filed, before the commencement of the work with the City Engineer.

Section 4. Said Company shall hold the City of Mansfield free and harmless from all damages arising by reason of the construction or maintenance of said telephone and telegraph lines.

Section 5. This Ordinance shall be in force and effect from and after the earliest date allowed by law.

Passed Jan. 12, 1942.

He described Joseph Stalin as a "great strategist" and said the Russian leader was personally directing the main strategy along the entire front.

Threaten Smolensk With Wide Sweep

MOSCOW—(INS)—Smolensk, important Nazi stronghold west of Moscow and last known field headquarters of "Generalissimo" Adolf Hitler, was threatened today by a wide, sweepig Russian advance through the Valdai hills.

The latest Russian successes were pictured by authorities as representing an advance of 65 miles over a 70-mile front, the biggest single advance yet registered during the current offensive.

Rzhev was declared to be completely encircled, while Soviet troops astride the Moscow-Riga railroad were said to have reached a line parallel with Smolensk, which thus is threatened gravely from the north.

At some points, it was stated, the Russians are nearly within 100 miles of the Latavian border.

The swift Soviet flanking maneuver was announced by the Soviet high comamnd, which said seven key points north and northwest of Smolensk had been recaptured by the Red armies.

Desert Fights Rage Around Agedabia

CAIRO —(INS)— Swirling desert battles around Axis-held Agedabia and British aerial assaults which performed "great execution" among enemy units were announced by the British Middle East command today.

The war bulletin said the results of the battles were not yet known. But it was indicated the strong effort is under way to strike the Axis forces from Agedabia, the western Cyrenaican seaport which Gen. Erwin Rommel's mechanized forces occupied in a sudden, full-strength thrust.

"Yesterday," said the communique, "several enemy columns, each with a tank component, were attacked by our mobile columns in the triangle between Agedabia, Antelat and Saunnu.

"Results of the fighting, which covered a very large area, are not yet known.

"But our air forces did great execution with bomber and low-flying attacks on groups of enemy mechanical transports at and about Agedabia."

ARREST YOUTH

FBI Agents Hold Boy, 17, for Sending Extortion Notes.

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — A 17-year-old youth was arrested by federal agents in Salt Lake City for sending two threatening letters to screen star Linda Darnell in which he demanded $1,000 "or else," the local Federal Bureau of Investigation office announced today. The youth, Oren William Haws, was taken into custody last night when the extortion notes assertedly were traced to him, the FBI reported.

LAND IN JAIL

Parents Keep Children Out of School Four Years.

DAYTON—(INS)—It took truant officers four years to discover that two children of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bowser of Dayton had not attended school from Jan. 15, 1938 to Jan. 10, 1942, because of their parent's refusal to have them vaccinated.

The parents of the children, who are 9 and 12 years old, are being held in county jail on charges of contributing to the truancy of minor children. According to their religious belief, vaccination is taboo.

was amazed by how much father had learned in a short seven years."

Decrying tendencies to underrate youth, Dr. Zaugg claimed the graduates were just as well equipped and just as capable of starting their lives now as their parents and grandparents were before them.

Facing them, he said, is a world "in greater need of their services and abilities than ever before."

Following the address, Glenn G Rohleder, principal, presented the graduates to Walton O. Leedy, board of education member, who in turn presented the pupils with diplomas.

Rev. Charles F. Sheriff, pastor of St. Matthews Lutheran church, gave the invocation and benediction.

Following the invocation Jack Shiplet, class president, took the stage and in his salutation thanked the parents for their aid in seeing the class through school.

Superintendent of Schools W. L. Miller introduced the speaker.

The class song written by Patricia Olin and Charlotte Paste was sung by them with the aid of Amy Jacot.

Music for the processional and recessional was furnished by the school orchestra under the direction of Siguard Jorgensen.

NAVY REVEALS SUBS ARE SUNK

for the apparently successful "counter blows" being given by the navy in the present "war of the shipping lanes."

It is known that "blimps" are playing an important role in helping to track down raiders. They hover over the sea, enabling their crews to spot shadows of U-boats even when they are submerged. Seaplanes, torpedo boats and destroyers also are deadly enemies of subs.

Detection devices also have been improved since World War I, especially by the American navy, with the result that subs, as a rule, steer clear of warships. These are some of the reasons why the navy spokesman told the press:

"Some of the recent visitors to our territorial waters will never enjoy the return trip portion of their voyage. Furthermore, the percentage of one-way traffic is increasing, while that of two-way traffic is satisfactorily on the decline."

What the spokesman wanted to put across, however, was the need for secrecy regarding the possible sinking or capture of enemy submarines. The Nazis naturally expect to lose submarines, but presumably it isn't very soothing to the nerves of Axis officials or other sub crew members if they are "kept in the dark" about the fate of their raiders.

Claim 18 Ships Sunk Off American Coasts

BERLIN—(U.P.)—(Official broadcast recorded by United Press in London) — A special communique issued at Adolf Hitler's headquarters said today that German submarines had sunk 18 merchant ships totaling 125,000 tons off the United States and Canadian coasts and torpedoed another ship and an escort ship.

The communique said one submarine had sunk eight ships totaling 53,000 tons, including three tankers, off New York.

(It has been the British experience all during the war that the German high command multiplies its figures generously in claiming ship sinkings by submarines and airplanes.)

Today's German communique claimed approximately three times more ships sunk than the United States and Canadian governments have announced.

TWO HURT IN FIVE MISHAPS

Hospital Technician Injured As Car Skids Off Highway, Hits Tree, Upsets.

Two persons were injured and two others escaped serious injury in five accidents occurring last night and this morning on Mansfield streets and highways near the city.

Mary Ann Miller, Shelby, a laboratory technician at Mansfield General hospital, suffered bruises when her car skidded off the highway, hit a tree, and overturned near Shelby this morning. Highway patrolmen said she escaped serious injury when the car rolled over on her only because the ditch was deep. The car was wrecked, and one tire destroyed.

George D. Berry, Lucas R. D. 1, escaped injury when his car failed to make a turn and rolled over twice on highway 39 south of Mansfield last night. Ted Echelberger, Mifflin, also escaped injury.

John Horning, 565 Springmill street, suffered a fractured left leg when he was struck by a car which police said was driven by Robert W. Van Auken, 207 West Park boulevard at Fourth and Mulberry early today. The driver told police he failed to see Horning crossing the street.

Drivers escaped injury in two other collisions. A car driven by Walter J. Westfall, 554 Daisy street, figured in a collision with a truck and another car at Bowman and Grand View avenues. A bakery truck driven by Robert E. Rush, 262 South Linden road, was struck by a car at East Sixth and Franklin last night.

Starts Annual Tithing Campaign

A consecration service with Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, pastor, preaching on the theme "Arise and Measure the Altar" will begun the sixth annual tithing campaign at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow in the First Christian church.

"Fairest Lord Jesus" by Matthews, will be sung by the choir; while Mrs. H. H Clingan will play "Chorale" and "Finale" by Boellmann, for prelude and postlude, on the organ.

Christian Youth Fellowship will meet at 6:30 p. m., Sunday; and the Ruth Circle class will meet at the home of Mrs. Carl Laubscher, on Park avenue west road Tuesday evening.

Lesson-Sermon To Be On Topic, 'Truth'

"Truth" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in the church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday. It will have for the Golden Text: "God shall send forth his mercy and his truth" (Psalms 57:3).

Included in the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon are the following correlative passages from the Bible:

"Ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, and my servant whom I have chosen; that ye may know and believe me, and understand that I am he; before me there was no God formed, neither shall there be after me" (Isaiah 43:10).

Brethren Church Services Listed

"The Power of Our Wants" will be discussed by Rev. R. L. Showalter, pastor of the First Church of the Brethren, during the morning worship service there tomorrow.

The young people of the Church of the Brethren will be hosts to the young people of the Ankenytown Church of the Brethren tomorrow at 7 p. m.

Church calendar for the week includes Confirmation class, 7 p. m., Wednesday; Senior choir at the same time; Adult Bible class and Junior choir practice at 8 p. m., also on Wednesday.

Talks On 'What Keeps Christians Going?'

The question "What Keeps the Christian Going?" will be the sermon topic of Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church at 10:30 a. m. services there tomorrow.

Organ music for the service will include "Salve Regina" by Kreckel "Rise, My Soul, To Watch" by J. S. Bach, and "The Everlasting Shore" by Pinsuti, all played by O. L. Seybold.

Meetings scheduled for the week are Missionary society, 2 p. m. Wednesday at the church; and the St. Paul's knitting class at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. Howard Stauffer, 517 Wood street.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HEADS TO STAGE RALLY MONDAY

23 Churches to Be Represented at City-Wide Meeting; Pastor to Give Address.

Under the sponsorship of the Mansfield Sunday School Superintendents association, a city-wide rally for all Sunday school teachers and officers will be held at 7:30 p. m. Monday in the Main Street Evangelical church, with 23 Sunday schools participating.

Rev. Lawrence E. Bair from the Evangelical-Reformed Seminary at Lancaster, Pa., will address the group on "The Sunday School and The Christian Home," as the principal speaker on the program.

After the program there will be a short business meeting of Sunday school superintendents. Monday evening's rally has been planned as the first of a series of four rallies to be held within the next few months.

Pastor to Preach On 'Moods of the Day'

"Moods Of The Day" will be the sermon topic of Rev. Peter Young, pastor of First Congregational church, at the morning worship service there.

During the service, Organist Kathryn Lewis will play "Hymne" by Meyer-Helmund, "I Love Thee, Lord Most High" by Kreckel, and "Andante Con Moto" by Beethoven. The choir will sing "Eye Hath Not Seen" by Gaul, and Wanda Hess, soloist, will sing "Bless This House" by Brake.

Pilgrim fellowship will meet at 6 p. m. tomorrow for a potluck supper. The Social Group of the Women's association will hold a luncheon at 1 p. m. Tuesday in the church.

At the annual meeting of the First Congregational church held recently, the following officers were elected: superintendent of church school, Earle Troll! deacons, Rex Averill and Scott Coffin; deaconesses, Helen Hurst and Mrs. Mark Wolcott; junior deacons, Ralph Baer, J. H. Congwer, E. C. Flory and Densel Morgan; trustees, R. E. Hutchison and Lewis Hartman; clerk of trustees, Merritt Giles; church clerk, Russell Copeland; church treasurer, Dwight Maxwell; religious education committee, David Shelley, Mrs. Thomas Ford and Mrs. George Kirtley; music committee, John Morgan and endowment funds committee, Avery Hand.

'United We Stand,' Topic of Sermon

"United We Stand" will be the sermon subject of Rev. Albert L. Linder, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, at 10:30 a. m. services tomorrow.

Special music heard during the service will include the anthem "Turn Thee To Me" by Harker, sung by the Senior choir, with Evangeline Williams taking the solo parts; and the special solo "Out of The Light That Dazzles Me," sung by George Lake.

Activities of the week include the Earnest Workers class at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, at the home of Mrs. Lyle R. Terry, 648 Glendale boulevard; Junior choir at 3:45 p. m. and B. Y. P. Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 24, 1942.

Drive carefully tomorrow—an accident might damage your tires.

Pressed for action to economize on non-military items, congress decides to save daylight.

Another advantage of cutting down speed is that young people are less likely to dash past opportunities without seeing them.

'Control' That Doesn't Control

POSSIBLY as much as could be expected of a politically-minded congress, in the way of a price control bill, has been agreed upon by senate and house, and is moving toward belated enactment.

As had been anticipated, congress steered away from any attempt to limit wages and also left a margin for advance of farm prices which will be effective in substantially raising the already high costs of living.

Price increases for commodities have become accepted as a natural part of national war economy, but there had been at least a faint hope that congress might act in a way that would hold the prices of essential commodities within the purchasing power of persons of moderate income.

The threat of dangerous inflation is not removed by such a so-called "price control" measure as congress has brought forth—after much labor.

State Liquor Board 'Means Business'

THE state liquor board, through Jacob B. Taylor, director, is letting it be known that it is in earnest about the warning issued last October that slot machines would not be permitted, after the first of the year, in private clubs that hold liquor permits.

According to Mr. Taylor, many private club operators were "misled to believe that the board would not follow up its warning that clubs displaying slot machines would suffer prosecution. As soon as they know we mean business they stop violating the law," he said.

Difficulty in knowing when the state liquor board, or other law enforcement agencies, "mean business" is quite understandable when it is considered that in a city like Mansfield, for instance, an ordinance requiring liquor sales places to close at 1 a. m. does not "mean business" but that an order to close a commercial bingo game on the ground floor "means business" and that decision against more than one bookie place in the city also "means business."

When a city administration assumes the responsibility of deciding which laws shall be enforced and which statutes, ordinances and regulations are to be ignored it does become rather difficult for offenders, or potential offenders, to find out which ones "mean business."

Optimistic Look Ahead

SOME observers don't seem much worried about the way the Japanese are spreading themselves like a plague over the islands of the western Pacific. One of them, DeWitt Mackenzie, writes that while the Japs have taken over considerable territory, and will probably take a lot more, there will be less grief about it than many people seem to expect.

> "As it looks now," he says, "we shall not have to take the innumerable islands back one by one. When the time arrives that the Allies can put a great force of bombers over Tokyo and other Japanese cities, and start tearing them up by the roots, the islands will come back to us automatically. That is to say, when the Mikado's mainland has to give up, the whole Nipponese structure will collapse."

Maybe so. But the Japs are tough and persistent, and they are capable of such barbaric tactics in territory that falls temporarily into their hands that no time dare be wasted in stopping their aggression and driving them out of invaded areas.

Economy In Little Things

A LARGE Chicago hotel has made it the full-time job of one girl to take care of the wafers of soap left in rooms by guests. These are collected, shaved up smaller still and melted with water over a hot fire to assure freedom from germs. The mixture is then cooled and goes to the laundry for the washing of blankets and linen.

In comparatively few American homes has soap been made since pioneering days. The science and art have been given over to the big manufacturers with excellent results. And indeed Americans do not have to treasure every drop of grease for soap-making. Soap is and will continue to be purchasable cheaply and in quantity here and in Canada. But small pieces might be saved in homes as in hotels. Soap is an extremely important factor in disease-prevention as well as in the upholding of morale.

'Back-to-Town' Movement Possible

THAT city dwellers have been living more and more in the suburbs is well known. Many cities have found entire sections within their bounds collapsing, as buildings which proved unprofitable have been torn down. More and more vacant lots, sometimes used for parking, appear in downtown areas, until in some quarters large cities resemble empty shells.

All this has been due to the increased use of automobiles. With driving sharply cut down, perhaps even suspended except for vital businesses, will today's tendency to decentralize go into reverse? Will suburban motorists move back to town to save the long journey, and fill up the empty spaces?

It would probably be better if they did not. The tendency to suburban life amid grass, trees and unpolluted air, has been health-giving. Slums and skyscraper apartments cannot, in the matter of health, compete with less thickly populated areas.

Nearly eighty years ago Lincoln wrote to General Hooker words that may well be echoed to leaders today: "Beware of rashness, but with energy and sleepless vigilance go forward and give us victories."

Conservation of tires also makes it advisable to give more attention to gathering up fragments of broken whisky bottles frequently seen on streets and highways.

A Florida woman, reaching the age of 100, reveals that she has smoked the same pipe 30 years—both still quite strong.

Some scientists think that mankind may revert to the ape type—and the Japs may eventually progress to that stage.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—It was a bitter cold night, and as Robert Louis Stevenson would put it, snow fell over Manhattan with rigorous, relentless persistence.

Benny Goodman looked at his wristwatch and put in a call for the airport. He said some words into the mouthpiece, and seemed relieved at what he heard. Then he hung up.

"We're okay," he said. "We're fine."

Benny Goodman, the old swing king, sat back down and drained the last few drops of his coffee. His eyes moved to the stand where his boys were occupied with a thing called "Elmer's Tune," then swept lazily to the swirling dancers who were crowding the floor of the Terrace room of the Hotel New Yorker. It was exactly midnight. In three hours they would be packing their instruments and hurrying to a chartered plane that would take them to Cleveland. The Cleveland mission was not swing this time. It was Mozart.

THAT is one of the curious, revealing things about Benny Goodman. He wants to narrow the span between "popular" music and "good" music. That is why he makes sudden departures from the New Yorker on midnight planes through snow storms. He has played with symphonic orchestras in New York and in Chicago, Cleveland and Washington, and Philadelphia and Dayton.

How do a swing king and his swing men fit in with symphony men?

Easy as pie. The program is divided. On these occasions Benny plays a standard work for clarinet and orchestra. A favorite with him is a Mozart concerto. He is simply the soloist with the orchestra. Later in the program—with the symphony men looking on wide-eyed, Goodman trots out his sextet. The audience then is invited to leap into the aisles if they wish (they usually do) and interpret with their feet the rhythms which Goodman then produces.

IT'S six of one and a half a dozen of the other from the curiosity angle. Benny Goodman admits to an awe and a reverent regard for symphony men. And the symphonists themselves never saw them quite like Benny Goodman, not in a Mozart atmosphere anyway.

On the side Benny is studying conducting. He thinks it takes two decades to get really good at it. He seeks a program of more and better music for clarinet. There's not nearly enough of it, he says.

When District Attorney Dewey ceased to function as such and closed his office the other day, every single member of his staff returned to the private practice of law—except one. This was Richard Korn, who has abandoned law for music. We take this opportunity to wish Mr. Korn well, but if he thinks he's getting away from racketeers just by getting out of a district attorney's office—well, wait till he gets a whiff of Broadway.

The original manuscript of John Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath" has been presented to the Library of Congress. . . . It runs 750 pages and all the corrections are in Steinbeck's own hand.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Jan. 24, 1922.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Warne, East Third street, left for Los Angeles to make future home.

Frank C. Poling, district governor of Ohio Kiwanis clubs, went to Chicago to attend midwinter meeting of officers.

William Strausbaugh, 61, died at his home south of Mansfield.

Paul Angle, Etta Fox, Carlton Fernyak and Paul Hursh were on honor roll at Miami university.

Kiwanis, Rotary and Exchange clubs held joint meeting at Masonic temple to hear address by Edwin C. Shaw, of Akron.

William Strasbaugh, 61, died at his home in Washington township.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, Jan. 24, 1937.

Fire and flood in industrial district of Cincinnati caused $2,000,000 damage as Ohio river reached 79.1 feet, an all-time high.

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer gave the address at the baccalaureate services of Mansfield Senior high school January graduating class at First Lutheran church.

Gertrude B. English was confined to her home with illness.

Daughter was born to Dr. and Mrs. Herman Petty, Loudonville.

Mrs. Susanne Beveridge celebrated her 85th birthday anniversary.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Gold was discovered in the Sacramento Valley in California on Jan. 24, 1849, and as news of the richness of these deposits spread a wild rush for the gold fields began. The immigration by sea and land in the single year, 1849, raised the population from 6,000 to over 85,000 and by the end of the year California was ready for admission to the union as a state.

Japanese Are Not 'Mere Puppets'

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

FRANK KNOX, secretary of the navy, may be right in his belief that Herr Hitler's the enemy upon whom it behooves the United Nations to concentrate primarily—that the Japs and Italians will collapse forthwith, upon the defeat of Adolf and his Nazis. That's the opinion he expressed in a talk before the National Conference of Mayors, recently in session in Washington.

Secretary Knox

Yes, perhaps he was correct. Nevertheless, it was hardly to have been expected that, in poohpoohing Japan, his judgment would be okayed with much unanimity by the Chinese, the Filipinos, the British at Singapore, the East Indian Dutch, the Australians and New Zealanders, or even by our own west coastal folk or by Latin Americans on the Pacific slope, from the Mexican line on down to the southerly tip of Chile.

Their reactions to that speech of Frank's have been coming into Washington ever since he addressed the mayors, and if any of 'em have indorsed his view, I haven't heard 'em, but there are plenty of the opposite effect.

That the Italians are ready to quit on the first good excuse is quite generally agreed. Not only Frank says so, but so do the British. Signor Mussolini doesn't rate as a serious worry. It's the consensus that licking the Fuehrer will lick Benito and his Fascists, too. Frank Knox could have made that statement without starting much of a controversy.

Two Methods.

He might also have said that perhaps there are two ways of disposing of Adolf—by trouncing him and his Nazis into surrender or by making things so miserable for the generality of Germans that they themselves will abolish him, with no necessity for further massage from the outside.

The most appalling stories leak out from the Reich concerning the horrors of the Nazi campaign in Russia. Being shot's comparatively merciful, according to these accounts, but after a German is wounded, it's related, he usually dies from the cold; he's better off if shot dead, escaping subsequent hideous suffering from frost, until, at length, it finishes him, by degrees.

Furthermore, he doesn't have to be shot to freeze—his face and hands and feet, up to his hips, it's said. On an average he isn't warmly clad, and frostbite calls for just the right medication, which it seems the Germans aren't provided with.

There's a certain amount of hopefulness that Herr Hitler's nearing the end of his string, meaning the end of Signor Mussolini's also.

But how about Japan?

It's been an obvious mistake to consider the Japs as German puppets. They took adavntage of the Occident's preoccupation with its own troubles to launch their Asiatic and southwesterly Pacific campaign, but they did it independently, and their geographical advantage is very material.

Japan May Keep On.

Even assuming Germany's and Italy's elimination, they're liable to be able to keep up a tiresomely long war.

They're so far off that they'll be more difficult than Germany and a lot more difficult than Italy to overrun. And they haven't got a mere Hitler or Mussolini to extinguish; they've got a whole military class, running into millions in personnel, to be exterminated—and it's a crazier fighting class than all the Nazis, Fascists and Falangists combined.

Italians aren't particularly suicidal. Germans are somewaht so, but nothing to compare with the Japanese Samurai.

And, in the meantime, the Chinese, the Filipinos, the Singapore aggregation, the Dutch East Indians, the Australiasians, the Hawaiians, the Alaskans, the western Canadians and the rest of our Pacific coastal western hemisphere are due to find 'emselves on a hot spot. No wonder they don't enjoy having Secretary Knox tell 'em that the Japs are of no consequence.

Love Is a Discipline

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I WOULD rather love unhappily, than not love at all. I would rather marry unhappily, than not marry at all.

I would rather have had a child, even though it ended in tragedy, than never have known motherhood.

Once, I could not have said these things. I thought that love, in any of its phases, must be ecstatic . . . must end happily.

But now I know that love is not an ecstasy. Love is a discipline. It is one of the natural and necessary disciplines of life. And there is far more sacrifice and suffering to any real love than there is delight.

Love isn't a childish game of kisses and sighs. It's a grown-up Act of Grace. It's a covenant between you and all those stern and beautiful forces which rule your life, here and hereafter.

Love is the greatest adventure you can know. But only you, yourself, can determine the height and the breadth of that adventure.

FOR YOU GET WHAT YOU GIVE IN LOVE—AND ONLY WHAT YOU GIVE. YOUR REWARD IS AS RICH AS YOUR OWN FAITH, TENDERNESS, AND GENEROSITY.

That sounds as if love were one-sided. But love is one-sided. No matter how much you love you can never really be a part of the loved one, nor command his or her secret thoughts. And you shouldn't try. There is only one thing you know . . . only one thing for which you are responsible . . . and that is your own devotion. The fact that you love, is enough, whether that love is returned fully or not.

FOR LOVE IS ALWAYS WORTH EVERYTHING YOU GIVE . . . EVERYTHING IT COSTS.

Love restores your soul, gives you a new lease on life—because you are literally reborn when you love. You are lifted out of your old selfishness and egotism and fear. You are made as generous and humble and fearless as a little child in your eagerness to give all you have.

Some day that "love fails us" . . . "love is a bad bargain." But love never fails us. We fail love. Love never let anyone down. It glorifies every life that is willing to enter its service and endure its discipline. But you must never forget that love IS a discipline . . . love IS a service before the High Altar.

Nor is love ever a bad bargain. Some people are bad bargains. And no matter how much you love them you should use sense in dealing with them. But love, itself, is never a bad bargain. No matter how worthless the loved one, no matter how great the loss and shame love always pays. You cannot honestly love without being the better for it . . . the wise, stronger and braver.

NEVER BE ASHAMED OF LOVE.

The trouble is, few of us know what love really is. We use the term to cover so many conditions. We use it to justify passion, vanity, excitement, greed, the longing for security, or an audience. None of these motives are love. They have nothing to do with love.

Love is that spirit which walked upon the darkened world and cried for light . . . and there was light. And unless you can approach love with that awe and reverence in your heart, you are not fit for its mysteries.

DARE TO LOVE!

DARE TO OPEN YOUR HEART TO LOVE AND FEEL ITS FLOODING GLORY . . . AND ITS CLEANSING PAIN.

There may be reasons why you can never express that love. It may never be known beyond your own heart. But dare to love, anyway! For only those who have loved, who have learned its risk and loneliness know life.

In Short

Collided: Two American freighters, off the New Jersey coast. One sank, the other was set ablaze.

Urged: That professional baseball be continued during the war, by FDR.

Defeated: By the senate, a proposal to forbid the sale and possession of alcoholic beverages on all military and naval establishments and adjoining areas. The vote was two to one.

Asked: The removal of Gov. Rexford Guy Tugwell of Puerto Rico by leaders of two island parties representing a majority of the electorate, in a message to FDR. The petition followed a quarrel about civilian defense officials for San Juan.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Nelson Starts Exercising Power, War Production Main Objective

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

WHEN President Roosevelt gave Donald Nelson sweeping powers as czar of America's war production, Nelson boldly proceeded to act like a czar.

He picked up the complicated and unwieldy production organization by the heels, shook it vigorously. Out came the OPM, once at the top of the heap but now replaced by the War Production Board.

Of the two top men of OPM—William Knudsen and Sidney Hillman—both remained on the new WPB even though their jobs had been abolished. Nelson wants their advice. In addition Knudsen, at the request of FDR, will be in charge of expediting production for the army with the rank of lieutenant-general. And Hillman will be in charge of a new labor division under WPB.

In creating a new, tentative setup, Nelson formed, first of all, a Committee on Requirements, under William L. Batt. It will make an overall estimate of the materials needed and then assign the materials actually available as judiciously as possible.

Six Main Divisions.

Below this committee, Nelson's administrative chart fans out into six essential divisions. They are:

Production Division, under W. H. Harrison. It must cut through the bottlenecks.

Materials Division, under Batt. It must make "materials go around."

Purchase Division, under Douglas Mackeachie, formerly of A & P. It will assist the army and navy in buying supplies.

Labor Division, under Hillman.

Civilian Supply Division, under Leon Henderson, price supervisor.

Industry Operations Division, under J. S. Knowlson, head of the Stewart-Warner Corp. It has the vital job of getting "as much conversion as possible" and quickly.

This last division will have some 50 or 60 industry committees under it. One, for example, will be the auto committee under Ernest Kanzler, an old associate of Henry Ford. He will have vast powers in directing the changeover of the auto industry to war production. The old auto conversion "subcommittee" under OPM composed of labor and industry will be simply advisory.

Meanwhile FDR asked for a $400,000,000 to $600,000,000 appropriation for workers temporarily displaced by the shift to war production.

At Home

'. . . As Thick As Catfish.'

In World War I Americans became accustomed to U-boats lurking off the Atlantic coast. The raiders destroyed about 100 U. S. ships in one six-month period. They sank several outside New York harbor.

But the raiders had to pay a constantly increasing price. In 10 months of 1918 the allies bagged 88 U-boats.

During the past week U-boats were again aprowl off the East Coast. Observers saw three reasons for their presence at this time:

They may have been gunning for Winston Churchill, who had been conferring in America.

They may have been sent as a warning to Latin American officials meeting in Rio de Janeiro.

Finally they may have hoped to be able to torpedo American troop or merchant ships.

By midweek they apparently had sunk five vessels, three of them oil tankers, two steamers. A sixth had been hit but limped to port. Survivors of one ship said the raiders were "as thick as catfish."

Self-Appointed Peacemaker.

The CIO was John L. Lewis' baby back in 1935. He led a dozen unions away from the AFL, and now he wants to lead them back. The catch is that Phil Murray, not John L. Lewis, is now president of CIO. Lewis heads only the mine workers.

He chose to ignore this detail recently when he reopened peace negotiations on his own hook.

CIO President Murray, however, was furious. In the chilly letter to Lewis he reminded his subordinate that any negotiations "necessarily have to be initiated through the office of the president" of the CIO (himself). However, he promised that the peace plan would be presented at a meeting of the CIO executive board.

Psychological Warfare.

No sooner had the architects in Washington built a single political structure to hold the 26 United Nations than Axis propagandists were huffing and puffing to blow it down. U. S. short-wave monitors reported these tactics to stir up suspicions among the new allies:

1. British listeners were told that U. S. admirals were secretly delighted over the loss of the British battleships Repulse and Prince of Wales in the Pacific; and Americans were told British naval circles privately rejoiced over American losses at Pearl Harbor.

2. The Chinese, Filipinos and Pacific Islanders were incessantly told to beware of "the White Peril."

Abroad

Getting There.

American air and naval forces in the far Pacific were showing new strength:

U. S. submarines sank three enemy merchant ships just off Tokyo Bay;

American Army bombers accounted for nine Jap planes in a dog fight over the Indies, and bombers also sank a Japanese cruiser and set afire a tanker at the southern tip of the Philippines;

A fast, tiny motor-torpedo boat of the Navy ran a gauntlet of machine guns and short battery fire to torpedo a 5,000-ton Japanese ship in Subic Bay at the rear of MacArthur's fighters.

Churchill's Surprise.

Most American newsmen were baffled as to the whereabouts of Winston Churchill. Soon after he made his appearance for them in his siren suit, he disappeared from public notice. Newsmen and most other Americans assumed he was slipping back to England. But almost two weeks passed without a word from him.

Britons likewise were anxious. German submarines were known to be hovering off the American coast. The Axis too was guessing, and badly. Axis broadcasts had him in a submarine en route to Gibraltar.

Last week-end he turned up, beaming and chipper. He had slipped off from Washington, but he had gone to Florida for a week's rest, while U. S. and British officials continued staff conferences. He returned to Washington, then took a huge 74-passenger flying boat to England.

U Saw's Journeys.

"Maung" is the Burmese equivalent of "Mister." Especially exalted persons in Burma, however, rate the prefix "U" meaning "Revered Sir."

This accounts for the name U Saw which has tackled Americans. U. Saw, a moon-faced, skirt-wearing, sly little man, has been prime minister of British Burma.

Last Fall U Saw made the long trek to London to demand immediate dominion status for Burma. He left sputtering. To U. S. newsmen he disclosed that Britain had refused dominion status on the ground that Burma was too weak from a military viewpoint. To this he snorted that if military inadequacy was a disqualification for independence then Britain herself was disqualified.

U Saw had previously said: "When I get back to Burma I shall have to say that Britain has nothing to give you, in which case. . . ."

On Monday, as the Japanese and Thailanders were launching an attack against the Burma panhandle, Britain revealed that U Saw had been arrested. London sources said he had been plotting with the Japanese.

Timely Editorial

Tin Shortage.

The changes in civilian life that will be wrought by the scarcity of rubber have been discussed in some detail. They will be numerous and far reaching—there's no doubt about it. Everything from baby's pants to automobile tires will be subject to priorities. Not so much attention has been given to the consequences of a shortage of tin. They are formidable, too.

As soon as present stocks are exhausted, we're told, there will be no more tin cans for beer, lubricating oil, cosmetics, dog food and tobacco. Later, the restrictions may be extended to prohibit the packaging of food in tin cans.

After March 31 there will be no tin for tin horns, toys, chimes, bells, beverage dispensing equipment, badges and emblems, britannia metal, eyelets, tinfoil and collapsible tubes. We shall be able to get along without tin horns very easily, but what will we find our tooth paste and shaving cream in if not in collapsible tubes?—Akron Beacon-Journal.

One-Minute Test.

1. Who was the chief founder of the United States army, and what was his rank and pay?

2. What famous woman lost her life in 1927 because of her costume?

3. What United States ace broadcaster never gets paid?

Words of Wisdom.

If a man would register all his opinions upon love, politics, religion, and learning, what a bundle of inconsistencies and contradictions would appear at last!—Swift.

Hints on Etiquette.

Respect for the privacy of others is important even in the closest knit family. If a member of your household is in his or her room with the door closed, do not burst in upon him. Knock and wait to be admitted.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. George Washington, lieutenant for eight years, and received no salary for he would accept none.

2. Isadore Duncan, dancer, because her long scarf entangled in the wheel of a car and strangled her.

3. President Roosevelt.

Quotes

Mark F. Ethridge, chairman of President Roosevelt's committee on fair employment, denounces racial discrimination in defense industry employment: "To draw lines of employment on any basis except that of fitness is to deny ourselves the full use of our manpower."

Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve System, urges a withholding tax and adds: "If this war is going to be fought on the basis of what we are going to get out of it, instead of what we are going to put into it, then we are going to lose it."

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia celebrates his 84th birthday: "Our superior productive capacity is going to win this war. I think we ought to shoot Japan off the map."

Carole's Contribution.

Film critics knew Carole Lombard, wife of Clark Gable, as one actress who could take both taut drama and uproarious comedy in her swift stride.

Hollywood itself knew Carole as one of its genuine persons, a carefree debunker.

Not long ago Carole declared that she wanted to make as many pictures as she could—just so she could give her government more income taxes.

To help her government raise still more money to prosecute the war she went to her home state of Indiana, sold $2,500,000 worth of defense bonds in one day.

On the return trip she took a TWA Skysleeper, along with her mother, 15 Army fliers and five other passengers. The plane smashed into 8,500-foot-high Table Mountain southwest of Las Vegas, Nev. All aboard died.

ORDINANCE NO. 42-13

An Ordinance granting permission to the Ohio Bell Telephone Company, its successors and assigns, to construct, operate and maintain lines of telephone and telegraph under, along and across the public roads, streets, highways and other public ways of the City of Mansfield, County of Richland and State of Ohio.

Sec 1. That consent, permission and authority be and they are hereby granted unto The Ohio Bell Telephone Company, its successors and assigns, to construct, operate and maintain lines of telephone and telegraph under, along and across the public roads, streets, highways and other public ways of the City of Mansfield, Richland County, Ohio, including such wires, conduits manholes, cables, electrical conductors and other appliances and appurtenances as may be from time to time necessary for the convenient transaction of the business of said company.

Sec 2 Said The Ohio Bell Telephone Company may exercise the rights herein granted by acquiring occupying or using the conduits and facilities of any other company; and may permit any other company to acquire, occupy or use its, conduits and facilities upon terms and conditions not inconsistent with the provisions of this Ordinance, to be agreed upon by said companies.

Sec. 3. All conduits, manholes and fixtures shall be constructed under the direction and supervision of the City Engineer and all streets and sidewalks that may be disturbed or damaged in the construction of the said lines shall be promptly replaced and repaired by the said company at its own expense.

Sec. 4. This consent shall not be construed as granting the right, privilege or authority to construct, operate and maintain telephone lines for the purpose of furnishing a local public telephone exchange service in said city; such local public telephone exchange service being defined as telephone service furnished to customers or subscribers between points located within the said city.

Sec. 5. Nothing in this Ordinance contained shall be construed to grant to the said company an exclusive franchise and the said city hereby reserves the right to grant a like consent to any other company, person or persons, for like purposes.

Sec. 7. Said company shall hold the City of Mansfield free and harmless from all damage or claims for damages arising by reason of the construction or maintenance of said telephone and telegraph lines.

Sec. 8 This Ordinance shall be in force and effect from and after the earliest date allowed by law.

Besides his widow Lucy, there survives three sons, Guy of Barberton, Orla of Millersburg and Boyd of the home; two daughters Mrs. Walter Patterson, Painesville and Mrs. Armor Horn, Millersburg; nine grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

ARRANGE SHORT CUT TO DEGREE

Ashland College Announces Streamlined Education Program.

ASHLAND—A three lane schedule of promotion was announced at Ashland college today, following drastic action by the faculty.

To meet the demand of the government for highly trained specialists in the shortest period of time, authorities announced that students entering college this year may graduate in twenty-seven, thirty-six, or forty-eight months with a fully accredited bachelor's degree.

A student entering in June this year may graduate in August of 1944 by increasing his number of classes per week.

"We want it distinctly understood that these students will be held to the same scholastic achievements as students graduating in four years," Dean R. R. Haun said in describing the course.

The group will be highly selected and only those who are honor students in their high schools or who pass a very rigid achievement test will be eligible for this section. The experiment which will probably be continued for the duration of the war, has the sanction of high educational authorities.

Other students entering may make arrangements to graduate in three years by eliminating vacations or they may continue for the customary four years.

Cleveland Public Hall To Be Used For Defense Work

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The city's big underground exhibition hall is about to enlist in the war.

Mayor Frank J. Lausche offered its 160,000 square feet of floor space on a rent-free basis for use of small industries busy on war orders, and Lieut. Col. M. M. Reedall, chief of the Cleveland ordnance district, accepted yesterday.

Under the agreement, still to be submitted to council, the entire lower exhibition hall and the underground garage will be available to small concerns which, lacking additional space of their own, can move machines onto the city's property.

Asserting "no better production space could be found anywhere in the city," Col. Reedall pointed out the area near public hall is fully equipped with power lines and other production requirements.

Several events scheduled for the underground area, including a national foundry exhibit early in April, probably will have to be canceled.

EXCELSIOR CLASS.

Mrs. Robert Phillips, president, had charge of the meeting of the Excelsior class which was held recently at the home of Mrs. M. D. Harnly, 807 Park avenue west. Miss Viola Wolfgang was associate hostess. Games were played and prizes were won by Miss Cecile Marti, Mrs. Louis Emmer and Miss Geraldine Ulm. Buffet lunch was served at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Robert Finical will be hostess to the class on Feb. 10. Miss Jessie Bryner will assist.

THEATERS

Gangland Drama.

Robert Taylor has his first really villainous role unrelieved by sentiment in "Johnny Eager," his starring production at the Ohio. A distinct departure from anything he has ever done on the screen the picture gives Taylor the part of a flinty-eyed killer whose one redeeming feature is his love for the debutante daughter of a district attorney. Lana Turner plays the daughter and Edward Arnold the district attorney. Van Heflin, recruited from the Broadway stage to play Johnny Eager's sardonic henchman, Robert Sterling and Glenda Farrell are others in the cast.

African Setting.

From the part of a daughter of the Confederacy in "Belle Starr," to the role of the beautiful half-Arabian and half-French heroine of "Sundown," is the step taken by Gene Tierney in her new picture showing at the Madison. The story has its setting on the Kenya-Somaliland border and its plot centers on Britain's efforts to retain its hold on Central East Africa. Bruce Cabot, George Sanders, Sir Cedric Harwicke and Reginald Gardiner top the supporting cast in the role of the few white men who rule hundreds of thousands of blacks. The Merry Macs and Leon Errol are featured in "Melody Lane," the second picture.

Air Thriller.

"A Yank In the RAF," starring Tyrone Power, opens Sunday at the Ritz. Power plays the American pilot who ferries planes to England and enlists with the RAF, just for a lark. Betty Grable provides the heart interest. "Moon Over Her Shoulder" shares the bill.

Aviation Comedy.

"Kep 'Em Flying," the riotous aviation comedy co-starring Bud Abbott and Lou Costello with Martha Raye, opens today at the Park. Abbott and Costello play "grease monkeys," in this production based on Uncle Sam's efforts to annually train 50,000 officers for the Army Air Corps. Carol Bruce helps supply the feminine charm as a U. S. O. singing hostess and the cast includes William Gargan and Dick Foran. The smalltown philosopher, "Scattergood Baines," puts his brains against city slickers in "Scattergood Meets Broadway," the second feature. Guy Kibbee plays the lead.

Convict Musical.

"Jail House Blues," a musical show inspired by a production staged by the convicts of a state penitentiary, is the current attraction at the Majestic. Nat Pendleton appears as a pardoned convict who refuses to leave prison walls until he has produced a musical show. Anne Gwynne, Robert Paige and Warren Hymer are others in the cast. "West of Tombstone," with Charles Starrett is the second picture.

KILLED IN ACTION

MARION —(INS)— Sgt. Donald Joseph Maskill of Marion, has been killed in action with the Royal Canadian Air Force, his mother was notified.

POPULATION IN HOLMES GAINS

100 More Births Than Deaths Recorded by County In 1941.

MILLERSBURG—Holmes county population made a gain of 100 persons in 1941 over 1940 according to the annual report compiled in the office of County Health Nurse Miss LaDora White.

There were 564 born in 1941 which was 126 more than the total of 438 born in 1940, however, deaths for 1941 totaled 221 which was 26 more than the 1940 total of 195, leaving a net gain in the population of the county of 100 persons.

Heart disease claimed the lives of most persons dying in 1941 as this disease took a toll of 87 lives. Cancer was next in taking lives, 24 having succumbed from it. Number of deaths from other causes were:

Pneumonia, 22, stillbirths, 22; apoplexy, 18; accidents, eight; hemorrhages, seven; senility (old age) six; kidney infection, five; premature, four; tuberculosis, four; acute influenza, three; anemia, two; and one death resulting from each of the following: injury at birth, intestinal infection, acute bronchitis, lockjaw infection, whooping cough, spina Bifida, and ruptured gall bladder.

LEGAL NOTICE

Carl L. Else and Laura Else, whose place of residence is unknown, will take notice that on the 9th day of January, 1942, C. C. Laser and Guy L. Walker filed a petition for forcible detainer against them in the Municipal Court of Mansfield, Ohio, asking for restitution of property known as Lot number Thirty-three Hundred Eighteen (3318) also known as Number 64 Mansfield Avenue in the city of Mansfield, Ohio. The defendants named above are required to answer on or before the 14th day of February, 1942.

MISS MARY M. HAZLETT WEDS WILLIAM C. ADAMS

Announcement Is Made of Marriage Solemnized on Jan. 10 In First Methodist Church at Covington, Ky.

MR. AND MRS. C. L. HAZLETT, 159 Blymyer avenue, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Mary Margaret, to William Clifford Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Adams, 457 Woodland avenue. The wedding took place in the First Methodist church at Covington, Ky., on Jan. 10 at 1:30 p. m. Rev. Jesse Murrell performed the single ring ceremony.

The couple was unattended. For her wedding, Mrs. Adams was attired in a gold wool street-length dress with black accessories. She had a gladioli corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Adams took a short wedding trip and are now at home on Boughton avenue.

The bride attended Butler high school and Mansfield Business Training school. She is employed at the Ohio Bell Telephone company. Mr. Adams was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and is an employe of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company.

Friends Honor Mrs. G. Hall, Recent Bride

Mrs. George Hall, the former Miss Evelyn Long, was honored recently with a shower given at Liberty park pavilion by 32 of her friends at the Ohio Brass company. Representing the group of girls, Mrs. H. W. Long, mother of the bride, presented her with a corsage of gardenias and roses.

Bunco was played during the evening. Prizes were won by Miss Betty McBride and Miss Gloria Kline, who gave their awards to Mrs. Hall. After gifts had been presented to the honoree, luncheon was served buffet style. Arrangements for the party were made by Miss Pearl Long, sister of the bride, and Miss Anne Enderle.

Honor Bride-Elect With Party, Shower

Honoring Miss Bonnie De Yarmon, who will be married on Feb. 8, the Misses Margaret Hammond and Donna Mae Bowman entertained 12 friends at a miscellaneous shower recently. The party was given at the home of Miss Bowman's aunt, Mrs. H. L. Chapman, 75 Brickman avenue.

A bride's book was made by the guests during the evening. Color scheme was yellow and white when a two-course luncheon was served. Balloons contained notes which directed Miss De Yarmon to places where her gifts had been hidden. The hostesses presented her with gifts of crystal and a lamp.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Jan. 25.

Sunday's horoscope seems to hold certain grave possibilities, calling for good judgment, poise, patience and perserverance in order to circumvent portentous or critical climaxes both in business and in private life. While there may be a surprising and sudden opening for adventure or progress in new lines, yet there are signs urging unusual care, discretion and prudence in making changes, or in travel or setting out on strange propositions

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be suddenly presented with a dramatic or thrilling opening to do something out of the routine or ordinary, yet they are beset by certain situations that demand much discretion, stabilization and profound judgment before embracing anything hazardous, regrettable or a situation menacing the year.

A child born on this day should have much stability and depth with creative urges of unusual scope, at the same time encountering an experience of trial and tribulation, with many fluctuations in life.

For Monday, Jan. 26.

Monday's astrological augury is an intriguing one, with certain testimonies for strange, unusual and unconventional as well as disruptive and disintegrating situations to be shrewdly solved. In customary ways this solution may be difficult but there is a most fortuitous sign of assistance and encouragement from a hidden, curious or mystifying source. It might be psychic, intuitive or because of great personal creative talents or cleverness. Shun important change and travel.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of a year of most mystifying and intriguing experiences which may arise to unravel strange, extraordinary or unorthodox situations. The latter may be unique and thrilling as well as dramatic, but a prompting of the "wee small voice" may avert trials and mistakes.

THELMA VAWTER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Vawter, Route 3, has just been elected feature editor of "The Grandion," year book of Rio Grande college, near Gallipolis, where she is a freshman. In addition to serving on the staff of the year book, Miss Vawter is a cheer leader and manager of two deputation teams. She was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school last year.

Mrs. G. T. Mast, 402 West Fifth street; Mrs. Edward Tinkey, 200 Bolin road, and Mrs. R. N. Hakes, Wooster road, have returned to the city after a two week motor trip through the southern states and Florida. . . . While motoring through Florida they spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thrush in St. Petersburg. Mr. and Mrs. Thrush are former Mansfield residents. They also spent several days in Miami and Jacksonville and returned by the coastal route.

MRS. BERTHA WELTER, R. N., past commander of World War Nurses, has returned to her home in Elkhart, Ind., after visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Buchan, 973 Park avenue west. Mrs. Welter had been attending a convention on "Rehabilitation" in Baltimore, Md. . . . Tony Linster and George Bender motored to Cleveland Friday evening to attend the Golden Gloves tournament. . . . Mrs. John Berger, Wolfe avenue, spent a day in Cleveland during the past week.

* * *

Mrs. Walter M. Rose and daughter, Becky, left Friday for their new home in San Jose, Calif., after spending the past five weeks with Mrs. Rose's mother, Mrs. R. W. Stephenson, 140 West Dickson avenue. Mr. Rose went to California a few weeks ago. The Rose family formerly resided in Mansfield and Wooster. . . . Miss Louise Grimes is spending the week-end at a sorority convention in Detroit, Mich.

Nite Lark Club Holds Meeting

Nite Lark club members held a reorganization meeting Friday evening at the home of Mrs. William Frontz, 147 Vale avenue. Fourteen members and four new members, Mrs. Greta Graham, Mrs. Martha Mawhorr, Mrs. Rhea Carpenter and Miss Ann Barcroft, were in attendance.

Mrs. Frontz, president, conducted the business session. Bunco was the diversion of the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Mawhorr, Mrs. Lettie McGregor and Mrs. Ada Lehman. Luncheon was served at small tables attractively decorated with valentine appointments. Miss Donna Frontz assisted her mother with the luncheon. The next meeting will be held Feb. 20 at the home of Mrs. Paul Stahl, 598 South Diamond street.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Oh, Steve's diabolically clever about it," Olina went on quickly. "He pretends the greatest admiration for Noel, and he only utters his slurs when he thinks he's safe.

"You know, two of the women in the cast and one of the men are so jealous of Mary's success that they would do anything to hurt her, either on her own account or through Noel. They all realize, of course, how much in love Mary and Noel are with each other, and how anything that hurts one hurts the other even more."

If sincerity ever sounded in a human voice, I heard it in the beautifully modulated tones of the young exiled Princess of Transvania. I cast aside all my prejudices against her, all my fears of her making any further attempt to undermine Mary with Noel, and accepted what she was telling me as an evidence of her affectionate concern for both of them and their happiness.

Olina Not Acting.

If Olina were acting, I told myself with a last dying breath of skepticism, it was so good a performance that the recording angel would pardon me for believing it.

But she was not acting I would have staked much upon it—and I put sympathy and attentive interest into the look I gave her.

"So Steve is very careful to refer cuttingly to Noel only when he is sure of an audience that will be gleeful over his quips?"

"I suppose," she gave me a direct glance, "you're wondering how I was able to hear them."

The thought had come to me as she was talking, but I promptly denied it.

Makes an Explanation.

"There is no need for me to wonder about it," I said. "I am sure you have an adequate explanation, or you wouldn't be telling me all this."

"Yes, I have," she said. "I happened to overhear Steve refer to Noel as 'Mary Veritzen's husband' and a 'tame canary,' with other remarks equally detestable. He didn't know I had heard him, and when I had conquered my first impulse to go out and claw his face and scratch his eyes out—wouldn't that have been meat for the gossips, my rushing to champion Noel? — I sat down and thought about what I would better do about it.

"I knew that Mary and Noel would be the last to hear the talk, and thus could not defend themselves against it. And you know how those things spread. I didn't know just what I could do about it, but I felt that the first thing would be to find out just how much and what Steve was saying, even if I had to sail under false pretenses to do it."

Interest Aroused.

My pulses quickened, and I straightened in my chair. This promised to be interesting, I hold myself grimly.

"I've always treated Steve with a certain degree of coolness," she went on. "I don't care much for his type. But a day or two after I heard him say those things, I began very gradually to drop my air of coolness toward him.

"He rose to the bait immediately. He's terribly vain, you know."

"Yes, I know," I told her, "and I've also heard and observed that he has a great deal of admiration for you."

Her rigid training kept her from either blushes or disclaimers.

"I do not know as to that," she said indifferently, "but he responded very satisfactorily to my growing cordiality toward him. And when I made the opportunity to utter a few faintly disparaging remarks about Mary and Noel, he evidently came to the conclusion that I was so impressed by him as to make me jealous of his professed admiration of Mary.

Invitations by Redfield.

"He did not drop the attentions to Mary, which everyone could see were eating Noel's heart out," she went on, "but he began to invite me occasionally to go out with him to luncheon or tea or dinner.

"Of course, with Mama, that would be utterly impossible for me—to dine alone with a man unless he were someone hall-marked by her—an accolade Steve Redfield would never receive.

"But I pretended regret at not being able to accept his invitations, explaining Mama's rules to him, and then he asked me to accompany him and Mary on one of their outings."

The memory of Mary's suggestion that Olina would make the ideal third party for the excursions my father wished her to resume with Redfield made me lean forward and say hurriedly:—

"Did you accept his offer?"

Uncertain Destiny + + + + + +

CHAPTER XVII

Steve seemed young and enthusiastic. "If I know Dad he'll demand that we ride for awhile to work up an appetite. But—" he seemed to sense that Linda's suggestion to have tea was to help in her new role as mistress of Hillsacres, to prove to the elder Baridon that Steve had not made a mistake in marrying a girl who had never known such luxuries—"the tea will be very nice, Linda. I'm sure Dad will be pleased."

Expecting a tall, rugged man, Linda was not disappointed in his appearance when Marshall Baridon arrived that afternoon. Clad in a white dress, her eyes clear and calm, Linda was standing on the flagged terrace, hands clasped before her, looking sweet and serene and expectant when they arrived. She couldn't know that Marshall Baridon saw in her the woman he had loved and married. The mistress of Hillsacres Farm.

Linda made many comments for her father's benefit as he saw a splendid likeness of Steve Olcott—features prematurely white, but their features were alike. The same upward slant, the same piercing blue eyes and rugged, handsome faces. Father and son—splendid examples of manhood.

"So you are Steven's wife," Marshall Baridon said gently, taking her hand and looking deep into her eyes. "Son I'm not disappointed in your taste after all."

So he had not approved of Brenda! It filled Linda with sudden, strange happiness, an emotion so perplexing that she could not understand it.

"I've been half afraid to meet you," she confessed shyly, "because I wondered what you might think of our hasty marriage."

"I have the utmost respect for my son's decisions," the father answered soberly. "Linda my dear, it makes me very happy to have you as a daughter-in-law."

In due time Mary and her sweetheart, Phillip Ross, appeared, there were caresses and compliments, and warm greetings that made tears rise in Linda's eyes. Never had she seen such a happy family as this.

The weeks seemed to fly by during Marshall Baridon's stay. Mary came to the farm to stay in order to perfect her riding for the eastern horseshows, and the house was filled with happiness and laughter once again. Phillip was a constant visitor, and there were picnics, hours spent in riding, long lazy evenings on the veranda. It was the most peaceful time in Linda's life.

She had never known people like the Baridon's before; luxury-loving, calm, almost stoic in their views toward life, and with an abundance of love and faith in one another. Yet all too soon this calm was to pass, and Linda would be plunged once more in a whirlpool of events—events that were even then fast approaching.

A rough draft of Steven's book had been turned over to a literary agent in New York City, and Linda received a sheath of reader's comments on the story which proved beyond doubt that the book would be a best seller.

Early in June, two major events took place. Steve flew east with the final draft of his book and sold it for a surprisingly large sum of money to a well-known publisher, and Mary Baridon was married at Hillsacres.

Watching the girl's radiant face as she took her marriage vows, Linda could not help remembering her own wedding. Mary was wed in the flower-filled living-room, surrounded by friends and her adoring father and brother. Linda's wedding had been marked by tears and sadness. Mary faced a happy future, secure in her husband's love. Linda had buried herself at Hillsacres—to forget.

Guests at the wedding and the brief reception were friends of Mary and her proud new husband. No one mentioned Steve's hasty marriage.

"I invited Diane" Mary said just before they left for their honeymoon "and she sent us a lovely wedding present, but refused to come. I wonder why?

Mention of Diane's name reopened the old hurt in Linda's heart. That part of her life had been a closed book at Hillsacres, and not once had Steve mentioned the artist's name since their marriage. Still, Linda knew he called on Diane on his infrequent trips into Chicago.

"We—we had a little quarrel," Linda said hesitantly because Mary obviously expected an explanation. "Oh it wasn't anything really, but she probably felt she might not be welcome here.

"You've been wonderful to us," Mary said, with tears in her eyes. "Phillip and I owe you both a debt of gratitude."

"We're very happy you chose to be married here," Linda assured her. "I hope you will be as happy as—" Linda broke off suddenly. She had started unconsciously, to say"—as we." But had this been happiness? And what about Steve? To be sure, he never complained and yet—Linda fancied she had noticed a strange, brooding expression on his face of late, an expression he quickly lost when she glanced at him, and she wondered . . .

"I hope we'll be as happy as you two," Phillip said, and then they were gone with shouted good-byes and the noisy clatter of tin cans and old shoes and a sprinkle of gaily flung rice.

When the last wedding guest had gone and twilight was settling over the farm, Linda sank wearily into a chair in the peaceful library. After the confusion of the past few weeks—Mary had driven out almost daily to go over lists of guests and make all the arrangements for her wedding—it was good to relax in the seclusion of the house, to think back over the kaleidoscope of events that had marked her debut in Chicago. Greg and Diane and all her bitterness seemed very petty now, in view of the wealth of contentment she had come to know at Hillsacres.

Linda started as Steve entered the room, wearing his beloved jodhpurs and boots. You don't mind if I join?" he asked.

Linda shook her head. "It's so peaceful here after that crowd and the excitement this afternoon. I had to get away to collect my thoughts."

Steve chuckled. Strange, Linda thought vaguely, how pleasant his laugh sounded, so warm and friendly as though they shared a very pleasant secret.

"My little sister tires you?"

Linda shook her head. "I'm very fond of Mary, and of you, too, Steve."

Her face was turned to the window, so Linda did not see the sudden expression on his face, the way his eyes lighted, his fingers clenched the pipe stem. If she had seen the eagerness written on his features, Linda might not have gone on:

"You've been almost like a brother, Steve. I never had a brother, you know."

The expression of indifference, which Steve had learned to wear to mask his real emotions, slid over his features. His voice was pleasantly indifferent.

"I—I hope you've been happy here these last seven months, Mrs. Baridon."

"Very."

"We'll be quite wealthy now. You can have anything you want. Furs, jewels, a car—just name it and it's yours."

Name it and it's yours! . . . Linda smiled sardonically. In the next few weeks, as Steve's book reached unbelievable heights of popularity, Linda smiled over those words. Every material thing it was possible to possess was Linda's. Steve surrounded her with luxuries, the things Linda Phillips of Prairievale had yearned to possess. Now they failed to impress her. She accepted these gifts graciously. That was all.

And then, one morning, Linda awoke to the realization that she must make up her differences with Diane. For a long time she lay motionless in her bed, longing to reach for the ivory telephone, yet half-afraid to hear her old friend's voice on the instrument.

The last few weeks had been endless to Linda. At first it had been fun to watch the money fairly pour in, to hear from Steve's publisher how famous his book was proving to be. It had been thrilling to shop with Mary for smart, expensive clothes, to lunch in fashionable restaurants without giving a thought to the price. But the newness had worn off and Mary had been forced temporarily to desert her husband to take part in a society horseshow in the East.

It had been hard, too, for Linda to keep up the pretense of disliking Diane Frazier. So much had occurred since Linda left Diane's apartment that November night, it was hard to connect that sobbing, hysterical girl with the now bored and unhappy wife of Steve Baridon.

At last she seized the telephone and called Diane's studio, her breath quickening with expectation. Then, after a long, uncertain moment, Diane's voice came over the wire.

"This is Miss Frazier speaking."

"Diane—this is Linda. Linda—Baridon."

"Oh!" Did she imagine uncertainty in Diane's tone? "Is something wrong, Linda?"

Linda laughed nervously. "No, not exactly. That is—" She was suddenly confused by the artist's direct question. "I—I must see you. It's very important."

There! She had said the very thing she never expected to say, and Diane's voice grew warmer. "We could have luncheon together at one o'clock tomorrow, if it's convenient for you."

"N—Not until tomorrow?" Wistfully.

Diane hesitated momentarily. Then, "I had made tentative plans, but I think I can break them. They really weren't important."

"Oh, I'm so glad," Linda cried impulsively. "I can drive to Chicago in two hours. Where shall I meet you?"

Diane named a popular lounge and Linda assented, scarcely able to keep a ring of pure happiness from her voice. Dressing for lunch she was conscious that a weight seemingly had dropped from her shoulders. She took greater pains with her appearance so that Diane might see in her a person far different from the innocent girl whose hopes and dreams were smashed months before.

At the last minute she paused uncertainly. What could she say, she wondered, in order to keep from Diane the real story of her hasty marriage and departure for Hillsacres, and, further, not to betray her interest in Greg's whereabouts, his plans for the future? Then she shrugged lightly, indifference. Every situation in which she had been involved of late had worked out satisfactorily. Perhaps this, too, would not prove an ordeal once she and Diane were together again.

Linda hesitated before the three cars in the garage, smiling ruefully at Steve's extravagance. The expensive cream-colored roadster she dismissed, as being his personal property. That car had been his first purchase, and Steve was boyishly proud of it. The station wagon was impractical for one person's use, so she took the small town car, which had been Steve's gift to his "partner-in-crime," as Linda had called herself following his success.

But driving to Chicago, Linda's newly-acquired calm gave way to rising excitement once more, would Diane accept her apology, she wondered, or had sufficient time elapsed for the other girl to forget the bitter words and accusations that had created a wall of misunderstanding between them?

Linda was soon to know.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

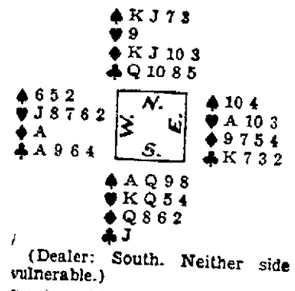
"The Authority on Authorities"

INDIRECT DEDUCTIONS

Some of the most important facts obtained in our card reading are through indirect deductions. They give us the number of cards of a particular suit in one player's hand, consequently the number of that same suit held by another. Then that count, considered in connection with the count of a couple of other suits, enables us to know the exact number of cards in the fourth suit. With that summary of suit-lengths, we then sometimes are able to place the location of specific honors and act accordingly.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♥	2 ♠	3 ♥
Dbl	Pass	3 ♠

Feeling that stern meausres would be necessary to head off that contract, and that some diamond ruffs probably would be required, West led his diamond A and then the heart 6 to East's A. Back came the diamond 5, for a ruff by the spade 2, and West went into a deep huddle with himself.

"South would not have doubled hearts with only three of them, so had four and East three," began his calculations. "East could not have had five diamonds, or he would have bid them probably over North's 2-Spades, instead of showing heart-support with only three cards He could not have only three, because then South would have five and probably would have bid that suit first instead of spades, which were marked as only four since, with five spades South probably would not have doubled the 3-Hearts. Hence South has four each in spades, hearts and diamonds, and consequently a singleton club."

After that reading, and seeing that two more tricks were needed to set the contract, West figured that his partner probably had something besides the heart A to justify his bid of 3-Hearts. The only likely thing would be the club K. So West underled his club A, the 4. East won with the K and returned the diamond 7 for the setting ruff.

Your Week-end Lesson.

If you have to decide between trying to drop a trump honor, and finessing against it, and also which defender to count on as holding that honor, how do you reckon which probably has it, if one had bid some other suit during the auction and the other had not?

Tygers Swamp Chaney for Sixth Straight Cage Victory

Sport Podge by REX HESS

All quiet on the Ohio State league baseball front?

Why, the merest tick of a foul tip would boom round the circuit right now with the roar of a coastal defense gun. So quiet it is.

George Satterlee says he understands the league is to have a meeting next month, but no word has been received from loop Prexy Joe Donnelly on the subject, so on what day and date the session's to be held, George couldn't tell you.

My own daily perusal of papers from all points in the circuit hasn't rewarded me with any information regarding the league for weeks and even months past.

So what plans the other clubs have or are giving up I wouldn't know, although it was taken for granted last fall that the league would fold.

But until the league meeting is held and a definite conclusion reached, the folding process must be held in abeyance.

Just like the Arabs, the league will say:
"We'll fold our tents, and steal away."

Satterlee declared the Mansfield club will neither make plans nor give up any until the league decides definitely what it's going to do.

He took occasion to deny a report that the club, after selling its third base bleachers to the high school, had also disposed of the knockdown fence which enclosed the diamond last summer.

"We merely moved the fence before it was taken away by kindling gatherers," he said.

"Unless the draft age is lowered to 18, leagues like our class D loop should be able to operate very successfully in 1942," Satterlee declared. "I've got a bunch of letters from young players who want to come here next summer, and who point out first that they are not yet eligible for the draft."

Mansfield now owns only four players: Manager Alex Clowson, Outfielder Bill Reinka, First Baseman Harry Siegbert, and Third Sacker Dick Morris.

And the Braves are about to lose Siegbert. A letter from Handsome Harry to Satterlee announces that Siegbert is going into the army next week.

Meanwhile, the report is getting around that Grover Hartley is trying to sell himself, and his Findlay Oilers, to the Cleveland Indians as a tribal farm, which would take the Cleveland support away from the Mansfield club.

Grover formerly caught and did a lot of neat pinch-hitting for the Indians back in the Tris Speaker era, and he may be able to connect with the Wigwam at that.

You'll recall that when Bill McGrath was cut loose by Mansfield last spring to get inside the league player limit, Hartley took him on, and later sold him back to the Indians at the close of the season.

Butler Cagers Beat Lexington

BUTLER — Playing one of their last games for Coach Merrill Hall who will leave this week for Boy Scout training in New Jersey, the Butler Warriors trimmed Lexington, 25-11, last night.

High scorers were Elwin Harris and Junior Pritchard, each with 11 points. Lexington got only two baskets with Bob Wade accounting for both of them.

The Butler reserves won their game, 21-12.

MT. VERNON BEATS BUCYRUS

MT. VERNON — Taking its fifth straight NCO league game, Mt. Vernon upset Bucyrus, 42-40, last night.

Mansfield Fighter Advances

Mike Sauer Wins Two Golden Gloves Bouts.

MANSFIELD welter-belter Mike Sauer advanced to the semi-finals of the Cleveland Golden Gloves 147-pound novice tournament last night by scoring two victories to add to the one he turned in on opening night.

Mike copped the duke over Matt Urbanek of Cleveland, over the regulation route in the first bout last night, and then punched out Bob Hawks of Cleveland in the second round of his later trip to the ring wars.

Leonard Smith, Mansfield novice heavyweight, kept pace with Sauer by defeating Budd Burlingham of Ashtabula, but Mansfield's Dick McConnell, open division welter, dropped the nod to Mike Birskovich of Youngstown.

Featherweight champion Sammy Derrico of Cleveland, led the way into the semi-finals with a second round knockout of Gerald Conklin of Ashtabula, but out-of-town maulers put on a bang-up performance.

Youngstown's contingent of amateurs paced the way for the Golden Gloves glory seekers by winning 10 bouts and dropping only five. A group from Lorain won only four bouts while losing 11.

Frank Cordy of Youngstown loped through two rounds successfully in the 135-round open division by defeating Chet Martin of Akron and coming back to whip Jimmy Kintz of Cleveland.

Pete Misto and Tommy Bell, Youngstown lads, romped through two rounds successfully in the 147-pound open division. Misto defeated Ed Cook of Lorain and then beat Carl Sotero of Cleveland. Bell beat James Baker of Cleveland and Eddie Elton of Akron in the second round.

Tony Kerpin of Youngstown advanced through two rounds in the 160-pound open division by technically knocking out Tunney Gassel of Akron in the first round, and defeating Mike Hudak of Cleveland.

In the 147-pound novice division Mike Constanino of Lorain, defeated Andrew Repaksy and then lost to Jerry Higgins of Ashtabula in the second round. Higgins had defeated Joe Wolf of Cleveland.

Lucas Defeats Shiloh, 19-17

LUCAS—By a scant two points Lucas defeated Shiloh in a Richland county cage league game last night, 19-17.

Bob Barger of Lucas led the scoring with four baskets and eight points.

Shiloh led, 6-5, at the end of the first quarter, both teams went scoreless in the second frame, Plymouth scored 11 points to Shiloh's eight in the third and both teams scored three points in the last quarter.

WILLIE HOPPE TAKES THIRD STRAIGHT TITLE

CHICAGO —(AP)— Another world three-cushion billiards championship for Willie Hoppe —his third straight.

The 54-year-old veteran scored a 50 to 31 victory over Welker Cochran of San Francisco last night.

Willie grinned, shook hands and made his choice of taking first prize cash of $2,500 or $3,321.25 in defense bonds. He took the bonds for his 18 hours' work since Jan. 9.

Shelby Trims Galion Quint

Whippets Take 27-17 N.C.O. Loop Victory.

GALION—By 10 points Shelby high school's basketball team won from the Galion high cagers on the Junior high basketball court here, Friday evening. The final score was 27 to 17.

Both teams, low in league standing, fought hard during the game.

Shelby led 6 to 2 at the end of the first quarter, while Galion made only five points in the next period and Shelby tallied 11 more to bring the score to 17 to 7 at the half. When the third quarter closed the score was 20 to 10 for Shelby.

Reds Urged To Join Army

If They Can Wear Khaki, Told to Leave Diamond.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Warren Crandell Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, has let his players know that if they could be wearing khaki, he doesn't want them in the red and white baseball uniforms next spring.

Giles, who heard bullets whistle in France as an artillery captain in the last war, wrote to each athlete on the Redleg roster a letter which read in part:

"I urge every player . . . to take stock of his personal situation, analyze it carefully and ask himself this question Can I stand at the bar of public opinion in wartime and conscientiously justify good and sufficient reasons for not being in government service?

"If you cannot answer that question in the affirmative, look men straight in the eye and justify in your own heart and mind that you have justifiable reasons . . . you should not be playing on a professional baseball team during wartime."

* * *

Most of the Reds are in classes 3-A, 1-B and 4-F. Only Infielder Benny Zientara, a rookie, has been inducted; although more than a dozen players on Redleg farm clubs are in the service.

Miller Sets Pace In Westie-D Loop

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Races at the Ohio state fair this year will start on Saturday instead of Monday, according to an announcement by Director of Agriculture John T. Brown. The fair starts Saturday, Aug. 29, and racing will be offered Saturday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Stake race entries close April 1 and purses for the eight stake events and nine class races will be $14,000.

Redcats Upset Dope Bucket

Take Overtime Battle From Baldwin-Wallace.

(By Associated Press)

Western Reserve university had double cause for celebration today.

First, the Redcats upset the dope bucket last night by defeating Baldwin-Wallace, 45 to 43, in an overtime basketball game. Second, it was the Clevelanders' first win in four starts.

Joe Sponseller, Reserve sophomore guard, nailed the lid shut on the Yellow-Jackets by breaking a tie with two last minute free throws.

In the Ohio conference, Mount Union's Raiders trounced Wittenberg, 64 to 45, for their 10th straight victory of the season and their seventh loop win. Mount's big three — Center Stan Baughman and Forwards Rudy Schlott and Charles Joachim—made 17, 16 and 15 points, respectively.

Bowling Green defeated visiting Hiram, 31 to 22, in an unspectacular game. At Tiffin, a Taylor (Ind.) university quintet defeated Tiffin, 57 to 47. At Clarion, Pa., Clarion Teachers edged Fenn of Cleveland, 41 to 37, and at Fort Wayne, Concordia edged Giffin of Van Wert, O., 31 to 30.

Simpson Wallops Willard, 48-11

John Simpson junior high school cagers walloped Willard Junior high school last night, 48-11, taking a 15-2 lead in the first quarter and increasing it every quarter.

Mike Zivkoff led the Simpson scorers with eight field goals and one free throw for a total of 17 points.

PERU BREAKS ITS AXIS TIES

First Nation to Act Under Resolution Adopted at Rio Conference.

aggrieved nation in her century-old border dispute with Peru, and presumably was awaiting settlement of that "aggression" within the Americas before undertaking measures against non-American aggression. Key figures at the conference, including United States Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles, were scheduled to meet today and try to settle the dispute.

Ten American nations were at war with the Axis and three had broken diplomatic relations before the conference began.

The resolution, drafted to overcome Argentina's—and to a lesser extent, Chile's—objections to a mandatory break, was approved last night at a meeting of the conference's defense committee. It must be approved Monday, along with all other resolutions and projects, at a plenary and concluding session of the conference. Submission of the resolution to this plenary session, however, will only be ceremonial.

The compromise was on the third section of the resolution. As adopted, it said:

"It is, therefore, recommended that according to established precedents of each nation's individual laws and regulations and to the actual circumstances of each country of the continent in the present conflict, that they break diplomatic relations with Japan, Germany and Italy, because the first of these states has committed aggression and the other two have declared war against an American country."

The original resolution introduced by Mexico, Venezuela and Colombia called for an immediate and complete break with the Axis. Argentina and Chile rejected it.

The finally accepted compromise was framed after what observers said was one of the stormiest days in pan-American diplomacy. The other nations had threatened to accept the first compromise and leave Argentina alone and defenseless.

Sponsors of the original formula were not satisfied with the compromise, but other delegates, including a number from the United States, said it would prove a strong and effective document. Admittedly, no nation will have to sever relations under it, and the effect of a swift and complete break on the Axis will not come about.

JAPANESE CRACK M'ARTHUR LINE IN BIG DRIVE

U. S. Admits Heavy Losses as Foe Wedges Way Into Luzon Positions.

However, it was notable that it was the first time since MacArthur took up his lines there that he had officially admitted the apparently permanent loss of positions on the peninsula.

It was presumed that if Japanese pressure grows too severe MacArthur's forces eventually will fall back to Corregidor fortress for an extended siege.

Despite their already great numerical superiority—the entire 14th Japanese army has been ashore for some days—the Japanese are continuing to land fresh forces in Subic bay and along the western Batan coast, the communique revealed.

These landings, it was evident, constitute a flanking threat to MacArthur's main east-west positions which are presumed to run across the peninsula beginning on the east coast in the vicinity of Balanga.

The Japancse moved warships up along the coast to support their landing efforts with bombardment of the U S. defensive positions—probably strongly emplaced artillery batteries for the most part. They also were employing aircraft to a greater extent than recently.

Against the Japanese air assault, it was revealed by a war department spokesman, MacArthur still has a small force of Curtiss P-40 fighters—or did have until most recent days.

It was the first time since the early days of the war in the Philippines that any mention had been made of aircraft support for MacArthur's gallant fight.

The size of the fighter force nestled at a secret field or fields amid Bataan's jungles and mountain peaks was not revealed. But it was said to have accounted for at least 38 Japanese war planes since the war started.

The American fighters and the heavy anti-aircraft batteries of Corregidor, it was evident, have played an important role in preventing Japanese air power from delivering crushing blows against MacArthur's positions.

Corregidor's guns and the other anti-aircraft weapons protecting MacArthur's strong points are credited with the destruction of 84 Japanese planes since the start of fighting.

MacArthur's communications through Mariveles port with Corregidor appeared to be functioning as usual and there had been no sign that he is suffering serious supply difficulties or excessive casualties.

U. S., British Fliers Down Plane-A-Minute

By O. D. GALLAGHER

(Special Correspondent for INS and the London Daily Express)

RANGOON, Burma—American and British airmen reached the plane-per-minute mark when they shot down at least 21 Jap aircraft during yesterday's raid on Rangoon, it was announced today.

(Editor's note: A later dispatch from Rangoon said it was estimated unofficially that seven Jap planes were shot down during the raid, making the total 28 instead of 21. Anglo-American losses were described as extremely small.)

Since Dec. 23 the daring American volunteer airmen in company with aces of the RAF have shot down at least 120 Nipponese planes.

One American and one British pilot were shot down and killed in yesterday's furious dogfight over Rangoon.

(The News Chronicle in London reported from Rangoon that the American squadron leader, Jack Newkirk, now is Burma's ace. He was said to have shot down two planes yesterday for a total of 24.)

Japs Decree Death In Philippines

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Japanese forces of occupation in the Philippines have issued a list of 17 offenses punishable by death the war department said last night.

The department said that it had heard, through Gen. Douglas MacArthur, of a proclamation issued by Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma, commanding the Japanese Philippine forces.

The fact that MacArthur was in possession of the proclamation strengthened belief that the harsh repressive measures had not entirely curtailed American-Filipino espionage. The list of Japanese-defined crimes included:

Rebellion against Japanese forces.

Internationally giving false directions to Japanese naval, land or air forces.

Espionage; collecting or giving out military information to American-Philippine forces or to the public. Damaging or destroying roads, waterways, railways, waterways, signs, telephone lines or equipment, mail facilities; any other disturbance of traffic or communications.

Damaging, destroying or burning houses, warehouses, buildings, trains, automobiles, vehicles, ships, arms, ammunition, provisions, clothing, or any other military equipment. Damaging or destroying military signs and notices.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Accepted For Enlistment—Cecil J. Rhodes, Bucyrus, was accepted for enlistment in the U. S. Navy yesterday at the Mansfield recruiting station.

Hold Defense Class—A meeting of the recently organized Emergency Service Corps training class will be held at 7:30 p. m., Monday in Scout headquarters, Scout Executive Floyd Dent said.

Picture Program — A motion picture trip around Ohio will feature next Tuesday's meeting of the Rotary club, to be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel at 11:45 a. m., with John B. Coleman as program chairman.

Arrest Cincinnati Man — Paul Malone, Cincinnati, was arrested last night by Mansfield police on a warrant from Cincinnati authorities charging Malone with non-support. The Cincinnati man will be returned to that city to face charges.

Makes Movie Tour — Hermit club members will explore Ohio by colored sound movies at their regular meeting at 8 p. m., Monday in the Y. M. C. A. The movies will be shown by J. B. Coleman, manager of the Mansfield division of the Standard Oil company.

Reports Auto Stolen—Mrs Pearl Hautzenroeder, 49 Maple street, reported to police last night that her automobile had been stolen from its parking place near 146 Park avenue west last night. Mrs. Hautzenroeder said that the doors of the car had been left unlocked but that the ignition was locked.

Attempts Purse Snatch — Mrs. Mary Thompson, 182 South Diamond street, told police last night that a colored youth had attempted to snatch her purse from her while she was walking on South Diamond street near her home. Mrs. Thompson gave police a description of the youth but they were unable to find anyone answering the description in that vicinity.

Fine Prowler—Clayton Saurer, Elyria, was fined $100 and costs today in municipal court after pleading guilty to a charge of being drunk and disorderly. Sauer was arrested after residents at 13 Dunbilt court complained that he was trying to force his way into the house. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended $90 of the fine pending good behavior and ordered Sauer to pay for replacing a window which he damaged.

Arrest Motorists— Two motorists were arrested yesterday by Mansfield police and state highway patrolmen on speeding charges. Both will be arraigned Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. Richard Sowers, 20, Ontario, was arrested by police who charged that he was driving more than 60 miles an hour on Park avenue west. Aldis L. Cleveland, Spencer, was arrested by state highway patrolmen who said he was speeding on U. S. Route 42, north of the city.

the same as high school teachers.

W. L. Miller, superintendent of Mansfield schools, said high school teachers must continue to have a minimum of four years college training to obtain certificates.

"The teacher supply problem is more serious in smaller districts where salaries are below average than in larger systems," Miller said. He added that he has had no trouble finding elementary teachers despite the war.

There is a scarcity of music, industrial arts, and physical education teachers in Richland county rural schools, County Superintendent Boyd Robinson said.

Most of the county schools, however, don't plan to "let down the bars" and begin hiring teachers with only two years of training until it becomes necessary, Robinson said.

SUGAR RATION CARDS NEAR

Washington Says System to Start In Another Month Throughout U. S.

ready have approved ration cards comparable to those in Great Britain and Germany. Printing of the cards will start within the next few days.

They said that housewives should not be alarmed, that the supply of sugar was not critically low and that the rationing system was being installed to prevent it from becoming that way.

Officials would not disclose what other commodities they are watching particularly, but they said the office of price administration is checking on all prices, shortages and hoarding of commodities.

In the average American home approximately 100 pounds of sugar is used annually, or slightly less than two pounds each week. The amount of sugar available to each individual under the rationing plan would be determined by the total amount available in this country, and the needs for national defense.

Rationing of sugar will affect the amounts of candy and soft drinks that may be consumed, as well as the sugar used in the home.

Most of the nation's chain stores and many independent grocers already have started informal rationing by selling their customers only a small amount at a time, frequently limiting sales to one pound.

The shortage in sugar arises from three major causes—loss of imports of sugar from the Philippines and drastic curtailment of imports from Hawaii, increasing requirements of sugar for manufacturing of industrial alcohol for the nation's war effort and hoarding of sugar by civilians.

Sugar has been removed from the tables in many restaurants in Washington, and in others customers are given limited amounts.

WAIT! YOU MUST HELP ME... THERE ARE TWO NAZI SPIES HERE! I NEED A 'PHONE!
SPIES? WAIT JUST A MOMENT, PLEASE!
HURRY!
WHO SAYS THERE ARE SPIES HERE?
YOUNG LADY OUTSIDE!
HERE COMES THAT WITCH WITH THE MANAGER! LET ME DO THE TALKING!
... BUT, I TELL YOU, THEY ARE SPIES!
MY SISTER AND I ARE LOYAL BRITISH SUBJECTS! EVERYONE IN BERMUDA KNOWS US! THIS WOMAN IS HYSTERICAL!
I'M INCLINED TO AGREE WITH YOU TWO LADIES... HOWEVER, THESE ARE WAR-TIMES, YOU KNOW I'D BETTER NOTIFY THE POLICE!
I'LL DO IT FOR YOU! OPERATOR! GET ME THE U.S. NAVAL INTELLIGENCE ... EXTENSION THREE!
STOP HER!
" YES, THIS IS BILL... NANCY? WHERE ARE YOU? WAIT — DON'T HANG UP! NANCY!
I'M SURE IT WAS NANCY'S VOICE, X-9! SOUNDED EXCITED... WONDER WHY SHE HUNG UP!
OPERATOR! HAVE YOU TRACED THAT LAST CALL?
THE AIRLINE TICKET OFFICE? OKAY.. THANKS!
I DON'T THINK SHE HUNG UP, BILL! THAT 'PHONE WAS YANKED OUT OF HER HAND BEFORE SHE COULD GET OVER TO US THAT SHE WAS IN A JAM!
AIRLINE TICKET OFFICE, EH? LET'S GO!
GET IN THAT ROOM! MOVE!
I TOLD YOU TO GET IN THE BACK ROOM WITH THE OTHERS! NOW, MOVE!
OW-W!
BETTER COME ALONG, MISS! I WISH I HAD BELIEVED YOU WHEN YOU SAID THEY WERE SPIES!
NANCY SUDDENLY YANKS THE FIRE-EXTINGUISHER FROM THE WALL AND—LATER
NICE WORK, NANCY! GLAD YOU'RE ON OUR SIDE, INSTEAD OF ON ADOLF'S AND BENITO'S!
I ONLY WISH I HAD THOSE TWO PIRATES HERE NOW!
CAPTURING CORAL AND MISS PRUE SMASHES THE SABOTAGE RING AROUND OUR NAVAL BASE, HERE IN BERMUDA! GOOD WORK, NANCY!
SWEET OF YOU TO GIVE ME THE CREDIT WHEN YOU FELLAS DID THE WORK
SO LONG, SUGAR! I HOPE ——
LET'S NOT SAY GOOD-BYE, BILL... HAVE A PLEASANT TRIP BACK TO WASHINGTON! CHEERIO!
BEGINNING MONDAY... SPIES ON ICE!

POLLY AND HER PALS

I HAVEN'T SEEN BETTY SINCE SHE WENT INTO THE CHORUS.. HAVE YOU, MERLE?
SHE'S VERY BUSY WITH HER WORK, POLLY
AND BESIDES, SHE GOES TO NIGHT SCHOOL, YOU KNOW.
TO NIGHT SCHOOL..? WHAT FOR?
TO LEARN TO WRITE... PEOPLE HAVE BEEN ASKING HER FOR HER AUTOGRAPH!
I'VE BEEN LOOKING FOR YOU HIGH AND LOW, ASH!
WOT FER, POLLY?
THE FESTIVAL COMMITTEE WANTS TO KNOW IF YOU'VE TRIMMED THE TREE THEY SELECTED FOR THE OCCASION!
I'LL SAY I DID!
TH' BEST JOB O' PRUNIN' I EVER DONE, BY HECK!
"SALTY" SAYS THEY SEWED A WHITE STRIPE AND A RED CHEVRON ON HIS ARM FOR FIRST-CLASS SEAMAN AND THIRD-CLASS PETTY OFFICER! HE SAYS YOUR BOY FRIEND IS JUST A STICK-IN-THE-MUD SEAMAN!
HE CERTAINLY LOVES TO BRAG!
I'LL HAVE YOU KNOW "SALTY" DOESN'T GET THOSE THINGS SEWN ON JUST FOR SITTING AROUND BRAGGING!
I SUPPOSE YOU'RE RIGHT, RITA!
IF HE DID, HE'D LOOK LIKE A CRAZY-QUILT!
WHY SO GLUM, POLLY?
THAT WAS DAVEY, MA. I HAD A DATE WITH HIM TONIGHT!
BUT HE JUST TOLD ME HE WAS UP TO HIS NECK IN WORK!
NOTHIN' STRANGE ABOUT THAT!
MAYBE NOT... BUT KNOWING HIM AS I DO, I'M ALWAYS AFRAID HE'S UP TO HIS WORK AT NECKING!
BORING DAY. I THINK I'LL SHOP SOME MORE AT THE SPORTS STORE HERE
YOU GALS SPEND MONEY FAST! WHAT'D YOU DO WITH THE RAJAH OF INDIA'S MONEY?
I WONDER WHAT HE'D DO WITH MINE ANYWAY, I CHARGE WHAT I BUY.
ALWAYS CHARGING! DOESN'T YOUR DAD GIVE YOU AN ALLOWANCE?
OH, THAT! IT JUST PROVES, BOB, THAT MONEY ALONE CAN'T MAKE A GIRL HAPPY!
AREN'T YOU SORRY WE'RE LEAVING HERE TOMORROW, PA?
HECK, NO! I'M GLAD WE'RE GOIN'
I NEVER HANKERED FER THESE SWANK PLACES - NEVER LEARNT T'YAWN WITH MY MOUTH CLOSED. I GUESS
PIDDLE STICKS! YUH JESS DIDN'T HAVE TH' COURAGE T'SKI, TOBOGGAN, BOB-SLED AN' SECH!
HECK! THEM THINGS IS NOTHIN'! DIDN'T I TELL YER EGGZACT AGE IN FRONT O' TH WOMEN'S SEWIN' CIRCLE?

OH. GEE, THANKS!! YOU'RE A SWELL GUY, GRAMPS!! UM-MM!!
HERE!! HERE!! CUT OUT THAT SOFT STUFF!! LET'S GET THIS THING SETTLED 'N OVER WITH.... HOW MUCH MONEY DO YOU HAVE SAVED UP.. AND WHAT IS MY SHARE?
UM-MUM! UM-M-M!!
WELL, WE'VE GOT THIRTEEN CENTS!!
THUMPO
NOW I WANT THE TRUTH AS TO WHY YOU WERE SENT HOME FROM SCHOOL!!
WELL, THE TEACHER ASKED ME HOW MANY STATES THERE WERE AND I SAID 44!!
WELL, THERE ARE 48.... ..BUT SURELY, SHE DIDN'T SEND YOU HOME FOR THAT!!
NO, NOT EXACTLY ..BUT WHEN SHE ASKED ME TO NAME THE STATES I COULD REMEMBER ONLY 23!!
THAT STILL DOESN'T EXPLAIN WHY YOU WERE SENT HOME!!
WELL... THEN THE TEACHER SAID THAT WHEN SHE WAS A LIL GIRL SHE COULD NAME THEM ALL..
Copr 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved
AND WHEN I POINTED OUT THAT THERE WERE ONLY ABOUT 18 STATES, THEN.. SHE GOT MAD 'N' SENT ME HOME!!

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

COME ON, ZERO..THE BELL JUST RANG FOR LUNCH — I OUGHTA BE AWFUL HUNGRY, BUT I'M NOT—
I GUESS I'M TOO HAPPY AN' EXCITED, 'CAUSE I'M GONNA BE TEACHER OF MY CLASS IN SCHOOL ALL THIS WEEK—ISN'T IT SWELL?
YOU KNOW, EVERY WEEK THE KID WHO HAD THE BEST MARKS THE WEEK BEFORE IS MADE TEACHER OF THE CLASS— AN' THE NEXT WEEK SOME OTHER KID GETS THE JOB—
DARRELL McCLURE
'COURSE, THERE IS A REGULAR GROWN-UP TEACHER WATCHIN' — BUT THE LITTLE TEACHER HOLDS THE BOOK AN' UNLESS SHE MAKES MISTAKES, THE REGULAR TEACHER JUST WATCHES AN' SMILES — THAT MEANS EVERYTHIN' IS OKAY!
HONEST— CROSS MY HEART AN' HOPE TO DIE, IF I DIDN'T HEAR THE LADY TELL MR. OLIVER SHE THOUGHT YOU WERE A TERRIBLY SWEET LITTLE GIRL—
AN' THEN THE MAN KINDA SMILED AN' SAID "THAT GOES DOUBLE FOR ME" — THEN MR. OLIVER SAID HE WAS SURE ANYONE WOULD BE PROUD TO HAVE YOU FOR THEIR OWN LITTLE GIRL
OH, ANNIE — I JUST LOVE THEM — WHEN THE LADY PUT HER ARMS AROUND ME AND KISSED ME, I WAS SO HAPPY I COULDN'T SPEAK— BUT WHY DON'T THEY COME BACK AGAIN??
DARRELL McCLURE
DON'T WORRY, PEARL — THEY WON'T FORGET YOU — BUT I GUESS LOTSA PAPERS AN' THINGS HAVE TO BE FIXED UP— I'LL BETCHA PRETTY SOON THEY'LL COME AN' TAKE YOU TO THEIR HOUSE AN' THEN YOU'LL LIVE HAPPY EVER AFTER — JUST LIKE KIDS IN FAIRY TALES DO!"
GOOD MORNING, CHILD — ARE YOU ENJOYING YOUR POSITION AS TEACHER?
HONEST, MR. OLIVER— IT'S SIMPLY GRAND! IT'S JUST LIKE I WAS A QUEEN OR SOMETHIN'—
AN' THE KIDS ARE TERRIBLY SMART— THEY DON'T HARDLY MAKE ANY MISTAKES 'CEPTIN' TINY LITTLE ONES — THE LESSON TODAY WAS 'BOUT FAMOUS ORPHANS WHO INVENTED THINGS
WHO INVENTED THE STEAM ENGINE—? THE FOUNTAIN PEN—? THE STEAMBOAT—? THE SUBMARINE?
ROBERT FULTON INVENTED STEAM BOATS
JOHN P. HOLLAND INVENTED THE SUB-MARINE BOAT
YOU SEE, MR. OLIVER, THAT'S JUST WHAT THE BOOK SEZ— I'LL BETCHA WHEN MY CLASS GROWS UP THEY'LL ALL BE FAMOUS ORPHANS, TOO
DARRELL McCLURE
GEE, MR. WILSON — THAT USED TO BE A REGULAR MOUNTAIN OF PINE STICKS — NOW IT'S JUST A LITTLE HILL — PRETTY SOON THERE WON'T BE ANY MORE STICKS TO MAKE BIRDHOUSES WITH — THEN WHAT'LL WE ALL DO?
WITHOUT STICKS WE CAN'T MAKE BIRD-HOUSES AN' THERE WON'T BE ANY WORK FOR US TO WORK AT
DON'T YOU FRET ABOUT NOT HAVING WORK TO DO —
I'VE BEEN A GUEST OF MR OLIVER FOR NIGH ON TO TEN YEARS — THERE WAS HARDLY A DOZEN GUESTS HERE THEN — BUT WE WERE ALWAYS BUSY AT SOME SORT OF JOB —
DARRELL McCLURE
MR OLIVER CLAIMS A BUSY BEE GETS MORE FUN OUT OF LIFE THAN A DRONE — AND THAT A WORKER GETS MORE HEALTH AND HAPPINESS OUT OF LIFE THAN A DOZEN IDLERS AND THAT WORK AND CONTENTMENT ARE TWINS
GEE, ZERO — THIS IS THE LAST BIRD-HOUSE AN' I CAN'T FINISH THE ROOF, 'CAUSE THERE ARE NO MORE PINE STICKS
IT WAS LOTSA FUN, MAKIN' THE BIRD-HOUSES — JUST LIKE PLAYIN' A GAME, 'CAUSE I KNEW SOME LITTLE BIRD FAMILY WOULD BE HAPPY TO HAVE THEIR OWN LITTLE HOUSE
BESIDES, MR. OLIVER NEEDS MONEY TO BUY FOOD AN STUFF FOR ALL US KIDS — NOW THERE ARE NO STICKS — GEE, ZERO — MAYBE THERE ARE
?!?!
GLORYOSKY, ZERO— BUT IT'S GRAND! NOW I GOTTA 'NOUGH STICKS TO FINISH THE HOUSE AN' I FEEL GLAD ALL OVER
DARRELL McCLURE
HONEST, NO FOOLIN', ELLA? YOU MEAN MR. OLIVER GROWS BABY PINE TREES IN LITTLE, TINY BOXES??
WAIT TILL WE REACH THE OLD GARAGE... YOU'LL SEE EVERYTHING WITH YOUR OWN EYES
MY GOODNESS-GRACIOUS — I NEVER SAW SO MANY LITTLE PINE TREES IN ALL MY LIFE — THERE MUST BE MORE THAN A WHOLE MILLION OF THEM!
NO, ANNIE — THERE ISN'T ANYTHING LIKE A MILLION — BUT THERE ARE ENOUGH BABY PINES TO KEEP US ALL BUSY FOR SOME TIME TO COME — JUST REAPING OUR SPRING HARVEST
GEE??

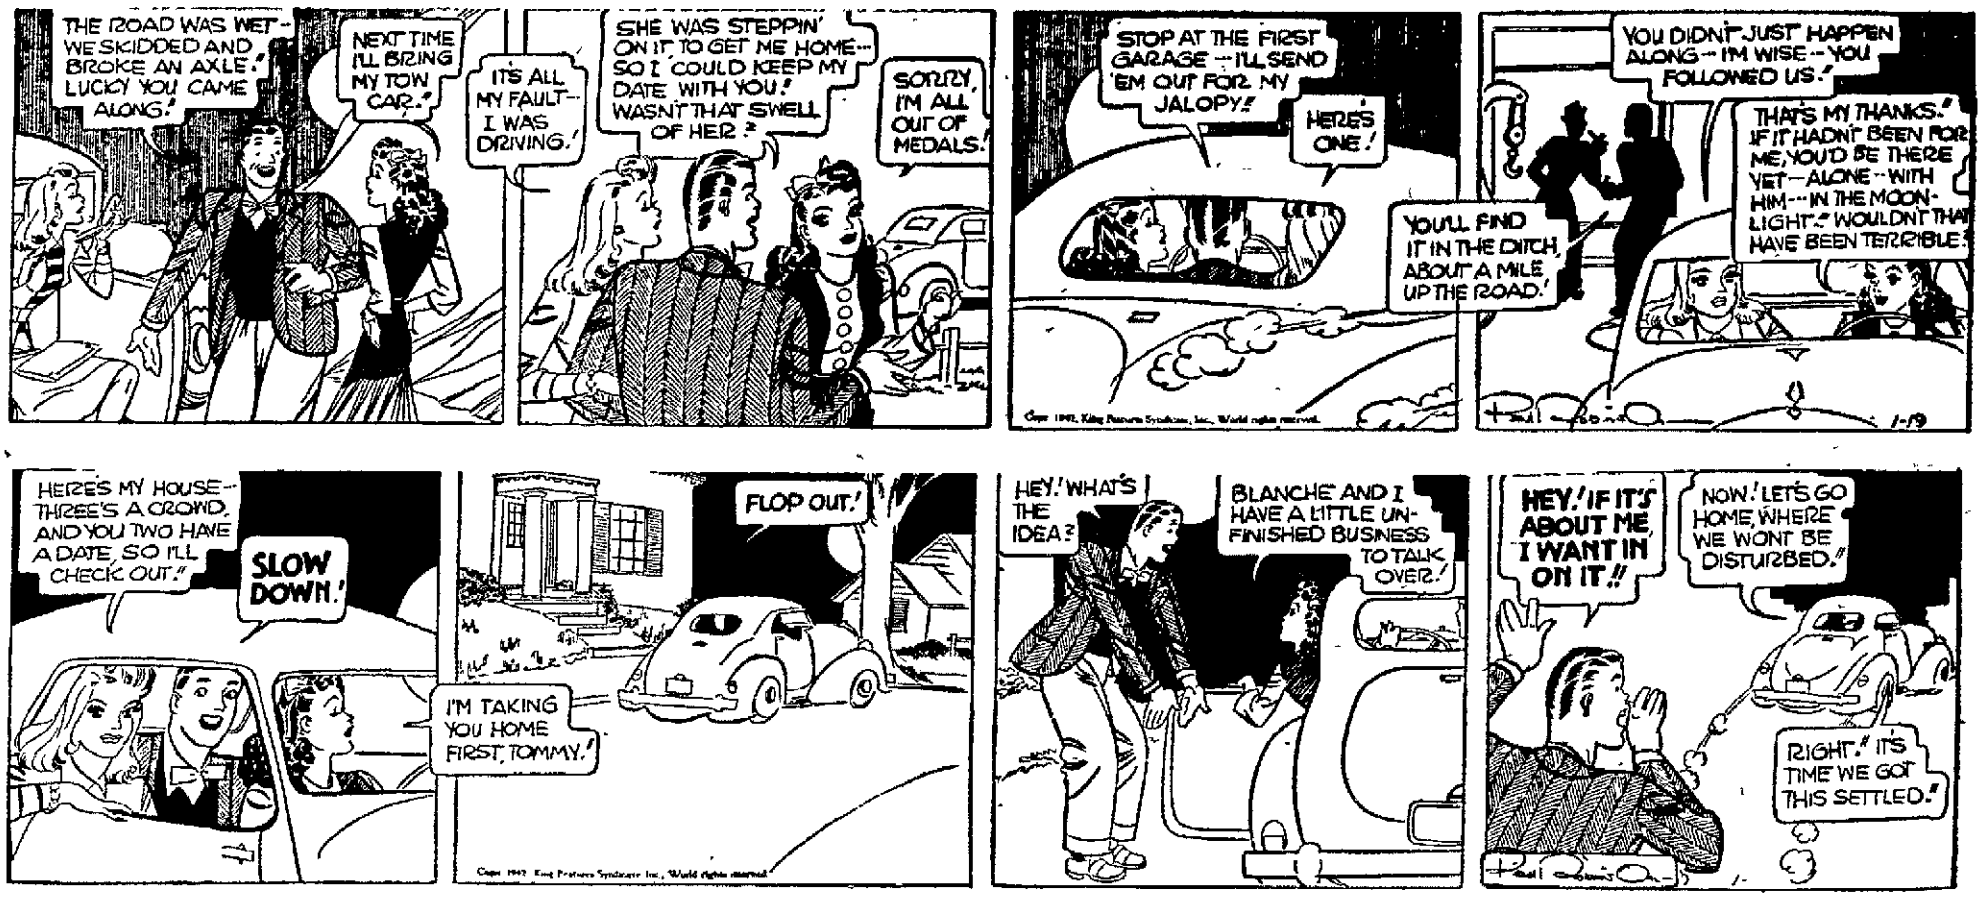
ETTA KETT



THE ROAD WAS WET—WE SKIDDED AND BROKE AN AXLE. LUCKY YOU CAME ALONG.
NEXT TIME I'LL BRING MY TOW CAR.
IT'S ALL MY FAULT—I WAS DRIVING.
SHE WAS STEPPIN' ON IT, TO GET ME HOME—SO I COULD KEEP MY DATE WITH YOU! WASN'T THAT SWELL OF HER?
SORRY, I'M ALL OUT OF MEDALS.
STOP AT THE FIRST GARAGE—I'LL SEND 'EM OUT FOR MY JALOPY.
HERE'S ONE.
YOU'LL FIND IT IN THE DITCH, ABOUT A MILE UP THE ROAD.
YOU DIDN'T JUST HAPPEN ALONG—I'M WISE—YOU FOLLOWED US.
THAT'S MY THANKS. IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR ME, YOU'D BE THERE YET—ALONE—WITH HIM—IN THE MOONLIGHT. WOULDN'T THAT HAVE BEEN TERRIBLE?
HERE'S MY HOUSE—THREE'S A CROWD, AND YOU TWO HAVE A DATE, SO I'LL CHECK OUT.
SLOW DOWN.
I'M TAKING YOU HOME FIRST, TOMMY.
FLOP OUT.
HEY! WHAT'S THE IDEA?
BLANCHE AND I HAVE A LITTLE UNFINISHED BUSINESS TO TALK OVER.
HEY! IF IT'S ABOUT ME, I WANT IN ON IT!!
NOW! LET'S GO HOME, WHERE WE WON'T BE DISTURBED.
RIGHT. IT'S TIME WE GOT THIS SETTLED.
HEY. I HEARD BLANCHE'S VOICE. WHAT'S COOKIN' IN HERE?
TOMMY, WILL YOU GO AWAY? WE'RE BUSY—TALKING.
SURE! I KNOW—ABOUT ME. WELL, I'VE GOT A RIGHT TO BE IN ON IT.
DON'T BE A DRIP. WE'RE ONLY TRYING TO DECIDE WHICH ONE MARRIES YOU. RUN ALONG—I'LL LET YOU KNOW WHAT WE DECIDE.
ISN'T THAT NICE OF THEM.
WELL, WHAT'S THE VERDICT? AM I TO HAVE A CHURCH WEDDING? WHEN DO I START BUYING MY TROUSSEAU?
TOMMY. THIS IS SERIOUS. YOUR FUTURE IS AT STAKE.
WE'LL PHONE IF WE NEED YOU.
HI YA, TOMMY. HOW COME YOU'RE PARKED OUT HERE? WHERE'S ETTA?
BLANCHE N' SHE'S IN A HUDDLE. THEY'RE TRYIN TO DECIDE WHICH ONE SHOULD MARRY ME. IMAGINE THAT.
WITH TWO GOOD-LOOKERS, HOW CAN YA LOSE?
I'D RATHER DO MY OWN PICKING.
WHAT'S THE VERDICT?
HAVEN'T DECIDED YET. WHICH DO YOU THINK HAS THE MOST TEMPER - A BLONDE OR A BRUNETTE?
THAT'S THE WAY IT'S BEEN ALL EVENING. WOULD I LIKE A CHURCH WEDDING?—WHERE WOULD I LIKE TO GO ON A HONEYMOON?
IMAGINE HAVING TWO GALS FIGHTING OVER YA.
I'M GETTING TIRED OF PARKIN' OUT HERE, WAITING FOR ETTA AND BLANCHE TO MAKE UP THEIR MINDS WHICH ONE'S GONNA MARRY ME.
PRETTY SOFT.
HAVING THE TWO PRETTIEST-LOOKING DAMES IN TOWN CRAZY ABOUT YA. WISH I WERE IN YOUR SHOES.
HEY. I NEVER THOUGHT OF IT THAT WAY.
WHAT'S THE VERDICT? WHO'S THE LUCKY GIRL?
WE'VE ALMOST MADE UP OUR MINDS.
TAKE YOUR TIME. NO HURRY. I LIKE IT THIS WAY FINE.
WHAT'S COME OVER HIM?
TOMMY. WHAT'S ALL THE EXCITEMENT.
I'M IN A JAM.
GOTTA DATE WITH YOU—FORGOT I HAD ONE WITH BLANCHE, TOO.
WELL—YOU ARE IN A SPOT.
WHERE'S THE 'PHONE? I'LL BREAK HER'S—I'LL COOK UP SOME KIND OF AN EXCUSE.
